80,000 Indians in US face layoff heat

Have to find a new job within two months or leave the country; share plight on social media platforms; Spotify to cut its staff base by 6%

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

WITH a series of layoff announcements by all top tech companies globally in recent weeks, reports suggest that 60,000-80,000 Indian IT professionals in the US have lost their jobs. A majority of them are said to be on H-1B and L1 visas, who will have to find another job within 60 days or pack up.

Microsoft, Meta, Amazon and Alphabet together have laid off 51,000 employees. Till now, 312,600 employees have lost jobs, according to Layoffs.fyi, which compiles data from public reports and tracks layoffs. In 2023 alone, 174 tech companies laid off 56,570 employees.

Many affected Indians have shared their stories on various social media platforms. Monambigha M, one of the impacted Google employees, said in a LinkedIn post that she must spring back into action as being an immigrant on an H-1B visa does not give her the flexibility to take time off. She joined Google only 10 months ago.

After working with Google for three years and six months, Kunal Kumar Gupta received the termination mail. "I am immediately open to work and would need immediate assistance to find a role as I am on an H-1B visa which gives me 60 days to find a job," Gupta said.

Meanwhile, Swedish music streaming firm Spotify on Monday announced that it is reducing its employee base by 6%, or about 600 employees. In a note to employees, CEO Daniel Ek said, "While we have made great progress in improving speed in the last few years, we haven't focused as much on improving efficiency... And in a challenging economic environment, efficiency takes on greater importance. So, in an effort to drive more efficiency, control costs... I have decided to restructure our organisation."

According to HR experts, it is not difficult for those who lost jobs in the US to find one in India. Vijay Sivaram, CEO of Quess IT Staffing, expects hiring intent for IT professionals across tech and non-tech companies to revert to its pre-pandemic levels.

"Hot skills such as full stack engineers, data analysts and scientists, DevOps specialists, and cloud engineers will be sought after," he said.

In connection with the case (O.S.No.4/2004) on boundary row, the state government issued an order, dated January 18, fixing the terms and conditions and professional fees to the legal team to represent the state.

As per the order, Mukul Rohatgi will get Rs 22 lakh per day as the fee for appearance before the top court and Rs 5.50 lakh per day towards preparation of the case including conferences and other work. Shyam Diwan will be paid Rs 6 lakh per hearing, Rs 1.50 lakh per day towards preparation of the case and Rs 10 lakh per day for outstation visits. Advocate General of Karnataka will get Rs 3 lakh per day for appearance before SC, Rs 1.25 lakh per day for preparation of the case and Rs 2 lakh per day for outstation visits.

Advocate Udaya Holla will get Rs 2 lakh per day for appearance before the apex court, Rs 75,000 per day day for preparation of the case, Rs 1.50 lakh for settlement of pending and other matters and Rs 1.50 lakh for outstation visits. P6

HC Lawyer collected kickbacks to 'buy' verdicts

P RAMDAS @ Kochi

IS there a price tag to get favourable verdicts? That is what a leading lawyer practising in the Kerala High Court had his clients believe when he collected lakhs of rupees from them. The money, he told them, was meant as kickbacks for HC judges.

The shocking revelation was made in the report submitted by the HC's vigilance wing after a detailed probe into the dealings of Saiby Jose Kidangoor. The probe was launched after revelations by HC lawyers as well as a directive from the court. The wing found instances of Saiby collecting money from clients by taking the names of judges P V Kunhikrishnan, A Muhamed Mustaque and Ziyad Rahman A A.

The HC vigilance wing recorded statements from several lawyers. One said Saiby allegedly received ₹25 lakh from a client to be given as bribe to a judge. Another lawyer put the number at ₹50 lakh.

A third lawyer said Saiby collected ₹25 lakh from a film producer, accused in a case, claiming some amount was for a judge. The probe officer concluded that Saiby's acts violated Section 35 of the Advocates Act.

Judges don't face poll, but people are watching: Rijiju

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

UNION law minister Kiren Rijiju on Monday threw another barb at the judiciary, saying though judges don't face public scrutiny or polling like politicians, people are definitely watching and forming opinions based on their performance.

Speaking at a Delhi Bar Association event, Rijiju said, "Judges don't have to face elections. They are also not subjected to public scrutiny. Although the public can't elect judges, they are watching them. Their judgments, the way they work and the manner in which they dispense justice, people are looking and are also forming an opinion. In the age of social media, nothing can be hidden."

Kiren Rijiju

After Chief Justice of India D Y Chandrachud's request for imposition of restrictions on social media against adverse comments on judges, the Centre is considering to take stern steps, he said, but wondered what could be done if the criticism is on a "mass scale". "CJI told me that there should be some restrictions on social media. CJI asked us to take some stern steps against people who are commenting on judges. We are considering it. But when people are criticising at a mass scale, what can we do?" Rijiju asked.

Reiterating that his letter to the CJI dated January 6, did not seek government nominees on the collegium, he said it was meant as a follow up of the SC's verdict in the NJAC case. "I wrote a letter to CJI on 6th Jan... Nobody knew about this for 2/3 days but someone got to know and the headline was that law minister has written a letter to CJI for government representatives in collegium.... Collegium consists of five judges, how can I add someone else in the collegium?" Rijiju asked.

He said the Centre respects the judiciary as its independence is absolutely necessary for democracy. "If the dignity of judiciary is lowered, then it can't be protected," he said.

NO 'MIDNIGHT BUDGET' THIS YEAR: BBMP CHIEF

Says 16,261 inputs from all 243 wards sourced in 31 days

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

UNLIKE last year when the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) presented its 'midnight budget' during Gaurav Gupta's tenure as Palike chief, the present BBMP chief commissioner Tushar Girinath has ruled out any such 'late-night' or 'midnight budget'.

The commissioner said this at a press meet organised as part of 'My City My Budget' campaign organised by the BBMP in association with NGO, Janaagraha.

Girinath said 16,261 inputs from all 243 wards spread across the eight zones of Bengaluru city were sourced in a span of 31 days, of which 67 per cent are related to footpaths, roads and drainage maintenance. As for road infrastructure, citizens have listed 1,490 km stretch of existing roads for repair, over 470 km of new footpaths to be laid and repair work of over 950 km of existing footpaths. The citizens have reiterated the need for adequate street lights across 240 km stretch of road in the city.

According to the BBMP, citizens of Mahadevapura, Yelahanka and Dasarahalli have made strong recommendations to augment the Solid Waste Management (SWM) infrastructure. Investment to improve pedestrian and vehicular mobility in Bengaluru emerged as one of the most critical areas flagged by the citizens.

"A preliminary meeting is being planned on the preparation of the budget for the year 2023-24 of the BBMP and the budget presentation proposal will be submitted to the government after February 15," said the commissioner. He assured that suggestions given by citizens to improve basic facilities will be seriously considered in the budget.

It may be recalled that last year, the corporation initiated a new system by publishing the balance sheet receipt and payment list on the corporation website at 11.30 pm.

Edu needs more allocation for infra needs, say experts

DONNA EVA @Bengaluru

As presentation of the Union and State budgets draws near, many educational institutions and experts have held out hope that more focus will be given to education in the coming year, especially in improving infrastructure.

Development educationist Dr Niranjanaradhya V P told TNIE that the Right to Education (RTE) and National Education Policy 2020 (NEP) cannot be properly implemented if at least 5% of the Union budget is not allocated to education. "The state of government schools is pathetic in both the country and state. Currently, only 2.7% of the state's GDP and 0.47% of the country's GDP is being spent on education, as opposed to the RTE's suggestion of 6%. While this is difficult, at least 5% of the Central budget should be allocated to education," he said.

On the lack of funding in the state, he said the bulk of the budget is spent on faculty salaries. "The state is left with only around 5 to 10 per cent of the total funds allocated to education, to provide better facilities and teaching material for students. The state should provide for children with disabilities with specially trained teachers, hearing aids, textbooks and other necessities they may need, instead they are only provided grants. There should be special allocation in the budget for quality education, to be spent on improving schools and providing better facilities for children," he said.

Others believe the state should focus on digitisation to ensure that education is able to reach people even in the most rural areas. "While the NEP's primary goal is to ensure everyone has access to education, it suffers from lack of infrastructure, especially digital, in rural and semi-urban areas. We believe there should be dedicated funds to assist educational institutions in building and scaling digital infrastructure to become hybrid learning centres," said Ali Sait, CEO of Tech Avant-Garde.

Interestingly, with the pandemic bringing to light issues of how mental health is managed in the country, some also believe that counselling in schools should be given more importance. "As a nation, now would be an ideal time to put mental health in the spotlight, this budget should allocate some amount on counselling school and college students. A mandatory and effective counselling programme should be drawn up to uplift children from all societies and backgrounds," said Dr S Nagendra, professor & dean of the Department of Management Studies, Nitte Meenakshi Institute of Technology.

Bengaluru: With the state budget round the corner and Assembly elections in April-May, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai held an internal meeting with the heads of civic bodies on Monday evening. The meeting discussed the Bengaluru Urban Development Department's Peripheral Ring Road of Nelamangala and Electronics City that will run along NICE Road. A source said that Bommai asked the officials about the status and way to set things right to complete the project. He suggested to the officials to acquire the land required through the land acquisition Act 2013 or earlier Acts. The CM also asked about the progress of BBMP's white topping project. There was, however, no discussion on budget. ENS

B'luru admin all set for R-day fete at Idgah Maidan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AFTER hoisting the Tricolour at Chamarajpet Idgah Maidan during last year's Independence Day, the Bengaluru Urban District Administration is now geared up for a grand Republic Day celebration there.

In preparation for the event, the administration has held a meeting with the police and other local organisations. Apart from the flag-hoisting ceremony, cultural programmes will be performed by schoolchildren. Also, more number of police personnel has been deployed in the maidan areas to prevent any untoward incidents.

The ownership of the maidan land has been the subject of a fierce dispute with the Muslim Central Association, on behalf of the Wakf Board, continuing to claim the right over the land and the Revenue Department asserting that it is government property.

Backing the government's stance, Hindu outfits, too, have been demanding that permission should be granted to host festivals of other faiths apart from holding of Independence Day, Kannada Rajotsava and Republic Day celebration.

Following a representation from Hindu groups, Deputy Commissioner Dayanand had written to the Principal Secretary of the Revenue Department regarding the celebration. The Bengaluru North Revenue Assistant Commissioner has been given responsibility for the Republic Day celebration here.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

24TH January : Today's mysterious Moon will continue to influence us over the coming few nights. Abundant anecdotal evidence suggests that we're all becoming more reckless at this time of the month, and many staff who work in accident departments claim that they're extra busy. My advice? Take good care on the roads!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The major concern is that you might be confused about a domestic matter. If that does seem to be the case, you must make strident efforts to separate fact from fantasy. It's not that one is better than the other, but that you need to know when your imagination is running away with you.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
All seems to be well at home. However, I suspect that many of you might be surprised to hear that in view of partners' often stroppy behaviour! What the stars are really saying is that even if you take a bit of a battering in the short run, the consequences this year and next will be in your own best interests.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
In some strange way the Moon is selecting you as a sort of cosmic revolutionary. What this means in practice is unclear, although I suspect that this is an ideal day to flex your emotional muscles and exercise your authority over colleagues and associates.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
The fact that the Sun is still forming a series of intriguing relationships with other planets could mean that you are gripped by a yearning that can never be satisfied. Realise that in some senses your dreams are just that - dreams! But if someone close to you should share them, then you're a lucky person indeed!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Things are moving fast behind the scenes - very fast! In view of the fact that there's a certain restless influence in your solar chart today, you would do well to talk to everybody about everything as much as possible. That way, you'll steer clear of looming misunderstandings.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
There is no need to feel sat upon, hemmed in or exploited. Now that the Moon is influencing the very summit of your chart, you should make a point of being self-interested for a change. If you expect a little respect, then you'll almost certainly get it.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
In some manner which is not easy to understand, achievements in the big wide world will be balanced by an increasing sense of private uncertainty. One option is to stand back and let Fate take its course - and to step into action when the time is right.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
I have a very strong feeling that a number of ambitions are about to work out as you always hoped they would, mainly because a series of separate planetary cycles is about to coincide. You might still be surprised by the change in a partner's opinions, though.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
There doesn't seem to be anything to be gained from going it alone. Indeed, I'd say that it was almost essential to team up with other people, even if that does mean letting them take the lead and set the pace. Your emotions may be a little uncertain today, but you'll settle down later on.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You are communicating your message fairly well - but there's still room for improvement. Do yourself a favour and tune into all romantic possibilities, recognising that you can be as romantic about places, or even memories, as about people. Wallow in nostalgia and do the minimum work necessary to keep afloat!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You should spare as much time as you need to enjoy yourself and taste the delights of love. This is not a matter of being slack or self-indulgent, but of recharging your emotional batteries. Other people should recognise it as such - and give you the benefit of the doubt.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Home and family affairs should take a relatively high priority, partly because someone you live with is waiting for you to take the lead. There doesn't seem to be anything terribly urgent, at least not as far as your solar chart is concerned, yet you will use your time wisely if you settle outstanding tasks.

Advocate paid minor to murder rival

Trio arrested, had ferried body from Anantapur to Doddaballapur and thrown it in a field

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

BENGALURU Rural district police claims to have solved the murder of an unidentified man whose body was found in an open field in Vijayapura police station limits in Doddaballapur sub-division. The face was disfigured and the fingers were severed.

After committing the murder in Kalyandurg, Anantapur, in Andhra Pradesh, the accused shifted the body into the boot of a car and drove nearly 190km to Karnataka to dispose of it. The incident came to light on January 2. Based on the fingerprints, police managed to identify the victim as V Muthyalappa, 37, of Kambadur in Kalyandurg.

Twenty days after the murder, police arrested the three accused from Kalyandurg -- E Nagesh, 27, an advocate, E Somashekar alias Shekar, 32, a daily wage labourer, and a minor. All three are from Anantapur.

The murder was due to old rivalry between Nagesh and Muthyalappa. He took the help of his friend, Somashekar, to bring the victim to an isolated place. After making the victim consume alcohol, the accused hit him with an iron rod and killed him. They then ferried the body to Karnataka and threw it in a field. Police recovered the car that was used to move the body.

"Muthyalappa was a professional thief and had over 50 cases against him in Andhra Pradesh. He had issues with the advocate for the past 10 years. Nagesh used his knowledge of the law, and got a minor to commit the murder by paying him Rs 2,500 as 'supari'. He also directed the accused to cut off the victim's fingers so the police would have a tough time identifying the body based on fingerprints. But the police found one finger at the scene of the crime. With this lead, they managed to identify the body," said an investigating officer.

College loo trespasser arrested

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE 42-year-old man who struck fear among students of a private college in Jayanagar IV Block after being discovered in the women's toilet, was arrested in Hanumanthanagar, 13 days after the incident. Jayanagar police tracked his movements through CCTVs. The accused had misbehaved with a student and escaped after locking her in the washroom. This had led to a protest by students who demanded better security and installation of CCTV cameras.

The accused was identified as Vijay Kumar, a resident of Sunkenahalli Extension in Hanumanthanagar II Stage. He was remanded in judicial custody.

"Kumar claims to be an alumnus of the same college. He also claims to have worked as a software engineer in Dubai. The accused keeps changing his statements and we are yet to ascertain his claims. He said he has stomach-related issues and has to use the toilet after a meal. On the day of the incident, he claims to have eaten something and rushed into the women's toilet in the college as nobody was around," said an officer. Kumar said he had no intention of misbehaving with the student and only tried to stop her from screaming by covering her mouth, police said.

Around 8am on January 10, Kumar had allegedly pushed a girl against the wall of the washroom, and locked her in. CCTV footage captured him running away outside the college premises.

Meanwhile, the 19-year-old girl is a third semester degree student.

108 Namma Clinics to open in city by weekend

AKNISREE KARTHIK
@ Bengaluru

AFTER missing several deadlines, the much-awaited Namma Clinic is set to open its doors in 108 BBMP wards (as against the total 243 wards) by this weekend. BBMP is handling the shortage of doctors and planning to launch the remaining 135 clinics in the next few stages.

The government was mulling opening all 438 clinics, including 243 in Bengaluru, in August but kept extending the launch deadline. Each clinic is to comprise a doctor, nurse, lab technician and a Group 'D' employee. However, due to shortage of doctors and failure to find suitable space for the clinics, only 114 Namma Clinics were launched by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai across the state on December 14, and none were in Bengaluru.

BBMP Special Commissioner (Health) Dr K V Thrilok Chandra told TNIE, "The launch date will be announced.

We are sure of launching 108 Namma Clinics by this weekend, and if possible, on Republic Day. The remaining clinics will be launched at the earliest."

Replying to a question on shortage of doctors, said to be the main reason for the delayed launch, Thrilok Chandra said it is being taken care of. "We are handling the issue of shortage of doctors. Once the 108 clinics become operational, we will launch the remaining soon."

Namma Clinics, set up on the lines of Delhi's 'Mohalla Clinics', will provide 12 services free of cost, and are expected to cater to a population of 15,000 to 20,000.

Pak woman picked up from Bellandur for illegal stay

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

A 19-year-old Pakistani woman, who came to India illegally to marry a security guard whom she met through a gaming app, was detained and handed over to the custody of the Foreigners Regional Registration Office (FRRO), while her husband has been arrested.

Police said Iqra Jeewani, who hails from Hyderabad in Pakistan, came in contact with Mulayam Singh Yadav (26), a native of Uttar Pradesh working as a security guard with a private company in HSR layout, through a gaming app several months ago.

The two fell in love and decided to get married. As per Yadav's advice, she went to Kathmandu in Nepal, where they both got married in September last year.

"Yadav took her to Birganj from where he brought her illegally to Bihar through the India-Nepal border, before coming to Bengaluru and settling at Labour quarters in Junnasandra on Sarjapur Road. While Yadav had got her an Aadhaar card in the name of Rava Yadav, and was in the process of applying for an Indian passport, the intelligence agencies tracked her as she was trying to contact her family members in Pakistan. The state authorities were notified, following which a case was registered in Bellandur police station," the police said.

While the woman was given to the custody of FRRO and detained at State Home for Women, Yadav has been arrested.

The house owner, Govinda Reddy, is also booked for allowing a foreigner to stay without collecting her details or informing the police about the illegal stay.

BENGALURU: A 26-year-old Bescom lineman was electrocuted while attending to a complaint related to a transformer near Gopalapura police chowki in Magadi Road police station limits, on Monday morning. The deceased has been identified as Gowtham, a resident of Sunkadakatte. BJP govt extorting even hawkers, garbage collectors, says DKS

@ Bengaluru

KPCC president DK Shivakumar here on Monday made a serious allegation that the BJP government has been extorting money even from street vendors and garbage collectors in Bengaluru and Congress is out to create awareness among people about it.

"A few days ago, I attended a hawkers' convention. They claimed that they have been facing harassment from BBMP and police officials. Rs 1 crore a month is being collected from street vendors in each Assembly constituency as each trader is paying Rs 200 to Rs 300 every day. The BJP government's corruption has gone to this level," he alleged.

He was speaking at a protest rally at Trinity Circle, held as part of the party's agitation at 300 places in the city with the slogan 'Abolish corruption and save Bengaluru', under the leadership of KPCC working president Ramalinga Reddy.

"The IT capital has turned into a capital of potholes and garbage. It is also the capital of corruption because of 40 per cent commission," he alleged.

'Many deaths have occurred due to potholes in Bengaluru as the BJP government has failed to address the problem. Questions raised by Congress about mismanagement have not received any reply from the government," he said.

The BJP government has not been able to keep up its promise to the people of the city and state. Only the Congress government can solve people's problems and that is why it has embarked upon Prajadhwani Yatra to work as the voice of the people, he said.

Under the BJP rule, prices of all essentials have skyrocketed, while people's incomes have hit rock bottom, he said. "We asked the government some questions. Let them come for a direct discussion instead of asking questions on social media. We are also asking more than hundred questions daily on social media. This government has not answered even one. Let them fix the time and the platform, I am ready," he challenged.

CONGRESS PROTESTS AT 300 SPOTS IN B'LURU

Congress, with a slogan 'abolish corruption, save Bengaluru', staged 'silent' protest rallies at 300 different public places across 28 Assembly constituencies in Bengaluru on Monday against the ruling BJP government, alleging it is involved in corruption leaving the IT Capital in the lurch. The protest rallies were aimed at the April/May Assembly polls. Congress workers, carrying placards, staged demonstrations at traffic signals, Metro stations and flyovers raising issues of potholes that have turned into death traps and road deaths and 40 per cent commission of the Basavaraj Bommai government. AICC General Secretary (Karnataka in-charge) Randeep Singh Surjewala, CLP leader Siddaramaiah, KPCC president DK Shivakumar, campaign committee chairman MB Patil, Shanthinagar MLA NA Haris took part in the protest at Trinity Circle. The protests were also held at Majestic, Silk Board, Lalbagh, KR Market, Mantri Mall, Peenya, Hebbal, Sirsi Circle and Anand Rao Circle among others.

To bury scams, Cong shut Lokayukta: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru, Belagavi

SLAMMING Congress for staging protests at 300 spots in Bengaluru against the state government on the corruption issue, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said on Monday that Congress leaders do not have any moral right to speak about corruption as they tried to shut down Lokayukta to bury their scams.

Congress members staged protests at various locations in Bengaluru with the banner "Stop Corruption, Save Bengaluru" on Monday. Bommai said Congress is the root of all corruption. It was during Siddaramiah's tenure as chief minister that Rs 800 crore was paid to party leaders. They have indulged in corruption and are blaming BJP to cover up their mistakes, he said.

Let Congress leaders give details to the Lokayukta. Those who tried to put an end to the Lokayukta are now giving lessons on preventing corruption. Cases had been filed against 59 people, including the then chief minister Siddaramiah. That was why the Anti-corruption Bureau was instituted. After that, B reports were filed in cases against them. Now, all those cases are being referred to the Lokayukta," he alleged. He said it was Congress that destroyed Bengaluru. "It was responsible for encroachments and closure of Rajakaluves and it also resorted to rampant corruption while closing rajakaluves," he added.

> Corruption and Congress are inseparable entities. Congress leaders have obtained PhDs in corruption given the extent of scams and scandals during their rule
> Basavaraj Bommai, Chief Minister

"Corruption and Congress are inseparable entities. Congress leaders have obtained PhDs in corruption given the extent of scams and scandalsduring their rule," he added.

On Goa government's attempts to stop the state from going ahead with the Mahadayi project, Bommai said the decisions taken by the neighbouring government inside the House will not have any consequence as the Centre has already cleared the DPR. "Let the Goa government try anything, we are working on the project as per rules," he stressed.

BJP files plaint with Lokayukta

BJP SC Morcha president Chalavadi Narayanadwamy filed a complaint with the Lokayukta against Congress on Monday. He said they have furnished many documents of corruption to the Lokayukta.

Voters want to favour Cong, end BJP govt: Siddu

V VELAYUDHAM @ Kolar

VOTERS in the state are in favour of Congress and are keen to put an end to the BJP government. That is why the ruling party is lining up national leaders like Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah, said Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah here on Monday.

Despite all these efforts, the saffron party will not return to power as it has failed to protect the interests of common people and farmers, he said, addressing the Praja Dhwani Yatra. The Congress yatra has gone through 12 districts till now and everywhere, it has received a good response, he added.

"There has never been such a corrupt government in Karnataka. Though Contractors' Association president Kempanna wrote to Modi one-and-a-half years ago, complaining about commission scam, no action has been taken by the BJP high command," he added.

Siddaramaiah said he moved the corruption issue in the Assembly thrice, but the Speaker did not allow any discussion. Now, there is corruption in transfers, promotions and tenders, he alleged. Siddaramaiah said he is contesting from Kolar, subject to approval from the party high command. KPCC president DK Shivakumar said that in the previous Assembly elections, Congress won five of the six seats in Kolar and the lone MLA too has now joined Congress. This time, the Grand Old Party will win all the six segments, he said.

Fearing loss, Siddu won't contest from Kolar, claims BSY

BELAGAVI: While former chief minister Siddaramaiah is all set to contest the 2023 election from Kolar, former chief minister and BJP leader BS Yediyurappa has stated that Siddaramaiah will not contest from Kolar. However, Yediyurappa went on to claim that Siddaramaiah is trying to contest from Mysuru. Speaking to reporters before attending the wedding of the sons of former deputy CM Laxman Savadi on Monday, Yediyurappa stated that under no circumstances will Siddaramaiah contest from Kolar. "Siddaramaiah is trying hard to switch to Mysuru, and not Kolar. He will certainly be sent home if he contests from Kolar," he reiterated. Despite knowing the imminent political developments that could follow, Siddaramaiah was still trying to indulge in drama, he claimed.

The Maharashtra government had moved the Supreme Court in 2004 demanding the merger of 814 areas of Karnataka including villages, towns and cities into Maharashtra. Then the chief minister of Karnataka S M Krishna had formed an advisory committee on the boundary dispute headed by advocate HB Datar.

Later, the state government named other legal experts as chairpersons of the advisory committee to fight the case in the Supreme Court effectively.

The Karnataka government has contended in the court that cases on boundary disputes between states does not come under the purview of the courts and that only Parliament has the power to decide on such issues.

However, it remains to be seen whether the case will be admitted in the court when it comes up for hearing.

Siddu must apologise for 'Hitler' barb: BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

CONDEMNING Opposition leader Siddaramaiah for his likening Prime Minister Narendra Modi to 'Hitler', the ruling BJP demanded that the former chief minister tender an apology for the barb.

BJP spokesperson K Vasanth Kumar said the prime minister is a leader serving the nation for the empowerment of all sections and is not a dictator.

He alleged that Siddaramaiah was working against senior Congress leaders, including G Parameshwara, Mallikarjun Kharge, and K H Muniyappa.

He said Siddaramaiah, who speaks in favour of Dalits, has finished their leadership, while mentioning that Modi gave title deeds to Lamabanis and increased reservation for the SC/ST communities. The Opposition leader, who claims to be from a socialist background, had spent Rs 70 crore to celebrate his birthday, Kumar further alleged. Kumar accused Siddaramaiah of ordering denotification of 900 acres during his tenure as the CM, and called it a "Rs 1,000-crore scam". He also accused the previous government of involving in other scams like that of the housing scheme and the national health mission, among others.

He added that Siddaramaiah failed to ensure comprehensive development of Mysuru, while Yediyurappa and Kumaraswamy developed Shivamogga and Hassan, respectively.

Clash over Mandya MP at temple event

MYSURU: Tension prevailed for sometime during the inauguration of the Sri Mahadeshwara Temple in KR Pete taluk of Mandya district, when a clash erupted between two groups over bringing Mandya MP Sumalatha Ambareesh on stage. The incident was reported during the inauguration of the temple at B Doudagere village. Two groups argued when Sumalatha was welcomed on the stage set up for the inauguration. The clash took a turn when JDS workers and Sumalatha's followers got a little physical. However, Sumalatha, who took the stage by then, expressed disappointment over the incident, and said that she had come as a representative of the district on invitation.

Soraba taluk sees 14 tahsildars in less than 5 years

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Shivamogga

A recent order of the state government transferring the 14th tahsildar of Soraba taluk in Shivamogga district Dr Mohan Bhasme to Dharwad has once again created vaccum in the taluk. With this move, Sorab taluk has seen 14 tahsildars change in the last four and a half years. Result: The development work in the taluk has taken a hit. What adds to the irony is that Soraba taluk is considered one of the most backward taluks in the district. It was declared a backward taluk in the Dr D.M. Nanjundappa report too.

Tahsildar's office is responsible for the taluk's administration. People visit tahsildar's office for various needs like getting land disputes solved, conservation of assets of temples, revision of voters list, flood relief, income certificates, caste certificates, distribution of sites and allotment of houses under different schemes, land development applications and its disposal and other revenue work.

On an average, 14 different tahsildars in a span of 56 months means each got only four months to serve. Even before a new tahsildar understands the local issues, he/she gets transferred.

When asked for the reason, local BJP leaders allege unnecessary highhandedness of party MLA Kumar Bangarappa who they say influences the transfers. However, Bangarappa denies the charge saying the power to transfer tahsildars lies with the chief minister. But the people of the taluk refuse to buy his claim. They ask how can a CM transfer a tahsildar without consulting the sitting MLA?

Amid all these allegations and counter allegations, it is the development of Soraba taluk that is taking a beating.

Republic Day tableau celebrates grand old women, done in a week

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA'S Republic Day tableau with the theme Naari Shakti (Women Empowerment) featuring Padma Shri awardees Saalumarada Thimmakka, Tulsigowda Halakki and Soolagitti Narasamma, was completed within a span of eight days. As many as 250 people, including artisans, worked day and night to finish the tableau in a short period, said to be the first of its kind.

The tableau has statues of green warrior Saalumarada Thimmakka from Gubbi in Tumakuru who has planted over 8,000 trees, Tulsigowda from Ankola in Uttara Kannada who has planted over 30,000 saplings, and Narasamma, a traditional midwife from Pavagada who is credited with over 2,000 traditional deliveries for 70 years, free of cost.

The Karnataka tableau takes part in the full dress rehearsal for the Republic Day Parade, in New Delhi on Monday | SHEKHAR YADAV

Karnataka, which faced much criticism from various parties, individuals and the public for not taking part in the Republic Day parade, was given approval just 10 days ago by the Centre, which had not considered Karnataka's entry as it had taken part in an earlier parade and even won the award.

PS Harsha, Commissioner, Department of Information and Public Relations, told The New Indian Express that it takes 30 to 45 days to build a tableau, depending on the work. "As the Centre decided to allow states that did not take part in the parade previously, Karnataka could not make it initially as it had already taken part and won many awards too. But CM Basavaraj Bommai persuaded the Centre to give permission. In the process, we lost around 20 days and had little time," he said.

Harsha said making a tableau is tedious work, which includes making the frame, civil structure, adding a cast, fitting fibre glass and much more, which is done by 60 people. This time, unlike previous years, it was done with just seven days. "We used advanced technology and roped in over 250 people, including artisans, from across the country. Work was taken simultaneously and assembled. Many components were airlifted as we didn't have time," he said.

According to Bommai, Karnataka has been taking part in the Republic Day parade for 14 years on the trot. "I spoke to Defence Minister Rajnath Singh and Union Minister Pralhad Joshi, and got permission. For just eight days of work, the tableau has come out very well," he said.

TN notifies trans rules to end discrimination

R SIVAKUMAR/SUBASHINI VIJAYAKUMAR @Chennai

TO protect the rights of transgender persons and end discrimination in jobs and education, Tamil Nadu government notified the Tamil Nadu Transgender (Protection of Rights) Rules, 2022.

Additional Advocate General S Silambanan on Monday said that the rules were notified on December 26, 2022, and has come into effect on the same day. He made the submissions before Justice N Anand Venkatesh of the Madras High Court during a hearing of petitions related to the LGBTQIA+.

Key aspects of the rule includes provisions to end discrimination in any government or private organisations, in areas of education, recruitment, employment, health care, public transportation, opportunity to hold public or private office, unisex toilets, and measures for safety and security in transportation and amenities.

A mobile app-Thirunangai Mobile App- has also been planned to issue identity cards to the members of the community.

Members of the transgender community urged the government to implement rights-based policies to ensure that they get the due place in the society. One of their long-pending demand is one per cent reservation in government educational institutions and implementation of 'Thirunar Plus' policy by the state planning commission. Trans rights activist Grace Banu said, "Our main demand is that one per cent reservation should be provided in government educational institutions and jobs. When it has been provided in neighbouring Karnataka, why can't Tamil Nadu implement it?" Banu said.

HC advises state to withdraw KPTCL officers' seniority list

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru:

THE Karnataka High Court advised the state government to withdraw the provisional seniority list of officers of the Karnataka Power Transmission Corporation Limited (KPTCL) and issue a fresh seniority list, keeping in mind judgments of the apex court regarding treatment of backlog vacancies in promotions and post-based reservation.

Justice S Sunil Dutt Yadav passed the order while rejecting a batch of petitions filed by officers of KPTCL belonging to the General Category, questioning the provisional seniority list.

"It is the stand of the state in the context of the challenge to the government order dated June 24, 2019, that the Reservation Act, 2018, would prevail over the notifications... in order to avoid any further confusion, it would be appropriate that the government order that was specifically passed to implement the Reservation Act, 2018, be withdrawn while reserving liberty to pass a fresh government order containing comprehensive guidelines, keeping in mind all judgments of the apex court enunciating the law as regards the treatment of backlog vacancies in promotion, post-based reservation, addressing the issue of those from the reserved category being eligible in general merit and such other relevant aspects," the court said.

However, the court clarified that this direction will not have any bearing on its conclusion on the seniority list impugned in the writ petitions.

Farmer leader slams forest officials over leopard attack deaths

Mysuru: A farmers' forum criticised the forest department for its failure to stop leopards, tigers and elephants from entering human habitats, leading to deaths and crop losses. Karnataka State Sugarcane Growers Association president Kurbur Shanthakumar said the government should form a committee of experts to contain wildlife attacks and demanded Rs 50 lakh compensation to the families of the deceased. Shanthakumar asked the CM to remove Mysuru district in-charge minister ST Somashekar for failing to prevent the deaths of four persons from wildlife attacks. The district minister should have visited villages to hold meetings and directed the officials to prevent man-animal conflict, he said. "We do not want ministers to visit the district to hoist flags during programmes and immediately rush back to Bengaluru," he added. If leopards are not caught and released into the forest, such incidents will happen again, he said. The government should give three-phase power for irrigation pumpsets to avoid such incidents of attack on farmers.

Prowling tigers hit coffee picking in South Kodagu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Madikeri

COFFEE growers are in a precarious situation during the picking season with tigers prowling in the village limits of South Kodagu.

The sector is already battling with labour shortage during the picking season, which has been worsened by tiger menace as labourers refuse to work in these areas, endangering their lives. The fear of tigers continue to haunt South Kodagu residents, leaving the estate owners worried.

"We are already facing labour shortage and tigers prowling in the estates and forest fringes are mounting our problems. Also, we cannot risk the lives of labourers and we must be cautious for coffee picking work," explained Harish, a grower in South Kodagu.

Recalling that a labourer was killed last year during the pepper picking work, he said, "We will have to accompany the labourers with guns to avoid any untoward incident. Even while taking a stroll in the estates, we take weapons for self-defence."

At the second Rudraguppe village in South Kodagu, three calves were killed by a tiger. The incident was reported close to the residence of A Dhanu, the owner of the calves.

Last week, an injured male tiger was rescued from a close human habitat at Maldare village that is approximately 36km from Rudraguppe village. The villages close to the Nagarahole forest fringes are facing growing movements of tigers and there has been no solution to the situation despite the capture and rescue of the tigers.

INDIA'S HOCKEY TEAM NEEDS REBOOTING, BETTER DIRECTION

In the strange world of Indian men's hockey, there is a place only for two extreme emotions: delight or disappointment. If Tokyo saw them being delighted, they were disappointed in Bhubaneswar at the FIH World Cup. While a few of their recent global defeats invited undeserved scorn—since 2016, they have only lost to finalists or winners at all FIH tournaments—this loss against the Black Sticks ought to sting. It should also invite scrutiny of the checks and balances that Hockey India has in place. The best hockey teams these days do not have players locked in training camps for more than 200 days.

Teams like Belgium and Netherlands have players participating in the vibrant club structure prevalent in both countries. There can be no excuse for the wealthiest hockey body to not have a club scene in India and disallow players to play in Europe, where the best play for three to four months every season. When New Zealand, whose funding programme is minuscule compared to India's, can fund a four-team franchise model to expose their players to compete abroad, you know Hockey India has to do better.

The bronze at the Tokyo Olympics was supposed to lift the millstone of underperformance around the players' necks. That didn't happen. If anything, what they served up at this World Cup was a very cold dish that wasn't suitable. In the end, Tokyo has proved to be the exception to the rule of India's continuing status as a middling team that fails to marry expectation with reality. If the former is the stratosphere, the latter is the ground. They seldom played as a top-six team at the World Cup and did not heed lessons given to them, especially when Wales, whose players pay to play, showed it was possible to get at them. It was also galling to hear the coach, Graham Reid, admit that the team hasn't had a mental trainer. There is no point in playing in front of stadia worth crores of rupees if the players don't have access to basic modern demands, like a psychologist who can help them understand themselves better. It's very human to feel the pressure, so why haven't the officials sanctioned one yet?

Maybe they will give them one before the Asian Games, India's next big assignment this year. Considering it's an Olympic qualifier, this group of players will need to put up a better performance.

SHELTER HOMELESS FROM CENTRE-STATES PMAY ROW

A bitter confrontation has begun between the Centre and states over the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojna-Gramin (PMAY). Central monitoring teams have been deployed in West Bengal to look into allegations of widespread irregularities in allocations under the flagship scheme, which has sent the Bharatiya Janata Party and the Trinamool Congress on a standoff path yet again.

While the saffron party has repeatedly alleged massive corruption in the beneficiary selection, the regional outfit has accused the former of attempts to tarnish the image of the Mamata Banerjee government. With panchayat elections due in April, the rural housing scheme has emerged as a flashpoint between the two political rivals that have always been on a collision course. The BJP's allegations of ineligible beneficiaries finding their way into the list of allottees have been met with TMC's accusation of the Centre blocking funds to the eastern state.

Not far away—in Odisha—the PMAY is in the midst of a snowballing controversy. Both the ruling Biju Janata Dal and the opposition BJP are busy exchanging barbs over its implementation. Now that the Centre has released 9.5 lakh dwelling units in Odisha and a provisional list of beneficiaries was published last week by the state government, the contentious issue is back on the boil.

The Centre released 27.5 lakh houses to Odisha under PMAY in two phases, with 18 lakh released in the first phase. The Awaas Plus portal was open for a year and a half from 2018. The BJD wanted the portal to be opened again to include additional beneficiaries because 2019 saw electioneering and the wrath of Cyclone FANI, necessitating the inclusion of more names. The BJP has countered this by saying the ruling party failed to utilise the period to include beneficiaries, besides accusing it of hijacking the scheme and using it to derive political mileage. Issues relating to eligibility, guidelines and identification have only added to the friction. It is about time the Centre and the states found ways to sort out this mess because the needy have missed out on benefits for far too long. The pandemic brought unspeakable misery to the poorer sections, and for the past three years, the construction of houses has been moving at a snail's pace. When elephants fight, the grass gets trampled. That is exactly what is happening with PMAY now.

QUICK TAKE

CHEEKY CHATBOTS

Is ChatGPT the next tool for cheating in exams? It already is, an American professor discovered recently when an average student submitted a suspiciously well-structured essay. He confessed to using ChatGPT to write the paper. Educationists worldwide are waking up to chatbots' ability to create excellent write-ups in no time. These programmes are already accessible in India. The NEP proponents must ponder how to face the chatbot menace. It could mean upgrading students' critical thinking skills or re-designing exams, even if that means oral exams or monitored use of computers. At the very least, it should spark a public debate.

Many Indian visitors to Egypt have had the entertaining experience of being accosted by young Egyptians on the street singing songs from Raj Kapoor films

SISI INVITE FILLS CRITICAL FOREIGN POLICY GAP

K P NAYAR
Strategic analyst

SOUMYADIP SINHA

The invitation to Egypt's president Abdel Fattah el-Sisi as the chief guest at this week's Republic Day parade fills a glaring shortcoming in India's external affairs that has existed since the Constitution came into force in 1950. When Prime Minister Narendra Modi approved an inter-ministerial recommendation a few months ago, to invite Egypt's president for the first time on January 26 this year, it was a move that India's Egyptologists have been hankering after for many decades. Egypt's numerous Indophiles have been similarly working since the 1980s to close the gap in Cairo's fraternal ties with New Delhi, which developed after Gamal Abdel Nasser's death.

Both these well-meaning lobbies have been innovative in keeping alive the spirit of a lost golden age in bilateral relations between India and Egypt. An India lobby is omnipresent in the largest country in the Arab world: many Indian visitors to Egypt—be it Cairo, Luxor or Aswan—have had the entertaining experience of being accosted by young Egyptians on the street singing songs from Raj Kapoor films like Awaara and Shree 420. As decades passed, Egyptians switched from the lyrics of Awaara to "Tujhe dekha toh yeh jaana sanam" from Dilwale Dulhania Le Jayenge. India's soft power in the country of 110 million people remains undiminished just like in the remote corners of the former Soviet Union, especially the now independent '...stans' of Central Asia.

During the decades when India was the flavour in Egypt, an Indian tea room, which was attached to the Centre for Indian Culture and Library, was a favourite haunt for university students in Cairo. Much romance blossomed over samosas and endless cups of tea at the bistro, which was affordable for those students. It is the stuff of enduring Cairo legends of modern times that such liaisons led to hundreds of marriages among young people before this popular rendezvous location closed. It is understated in the understanding of mutual engagement between India and Egypt that the way to the hearts of their peoples is through their stomachs. Exactly six months ago, famed Egyptian chef Ahmed Ragab titillated the palates of gourmands in the national capital by curating recipes from his country dating back thousands of years. Adding cultural spice and special flavour to the dinners that Ragab served up with the support of Egypt's embassy in New Delhi were Tanoura dancers flown in from Cairo. The whirling dance is unique to Sufism and has caught on even in the West but has been slow to spread in India.

For 40 years, until 2013, rich and powerful Indians visiting Cairo routinely used influence with the Oberoi hotel chain's Indian head office to get table reservations for dinner or high tea at the iconic Mena House Oberoi at the foot of the pyramids. A history masterclass tour of the hotel—whose famous guests included Sherlock Holmes creator Arthur Conan Doyle, crime fiction writer Agatha Christie, singer Frank Sinatra, one of the founders of American cinema Cecil B DeMille, "Tramp" Charlie Chaplin and wartime British Prime Minister Winston Churchill—had long waiting lists and had to be booked months ahead during the tourist season. After the Aswan High Dam was completed with Soviet assistance in 1970, drastically changing the life and economy of Egypt, the go-to place in Aswan was the Oberoi hotel in that city. Such fertile instances of all-round interactions between India and Egypt, which were abundant in the early decades of 75 years of bilateral diplomatic relations, have subsequently declined. Hopefully, the Egyptian presidents' three-day visit culminating in the special occasion of the Republic Day parade, will start the process of restoring vitality to relations between New Delhi and Cairo.

Defence cooperation is one new area of focus that will emerge from Sisi's meetings in India. As these lines are being written, the first-ever joint exercise between Special Forces of the Indian and Egyptian armies is underway in Rajasthan's Jaisalmer. Both countries have been separately having extensive military exercises with their respective defence partners, but none with each other on the scale of the ongoing 'Exercise Cyclone-1'. So, this is an opportunity for both armies to gain valuable insights into the culture and ethos of each other, especially in interoperability of personnel and equipment.

The two Air Forces, on the other hand, have held joint tactical exercises. The participation of a military contingent from the Egyptian Army in the Republic Day parade, marching along with the Indian Armed Forces, watched by their respective Commanders-in-Chief, will send a powerful message for future interlinkages. The grapevine has lately been rife with talk that Egypt may buy Indian-made fighter jets and light attack helicopters. It is important to ensure that an emerging defence relationship does not fall into the trap of becoming transactional, which could have a negative fallout given the inherent perils of lucrative military sales.

External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar and Defence Minister Rajnath Singh have made back-to-back visits to Cairo in the run up to the invitation to Sisi. Jaishankar has also been in telephone conversations with his Egyptian counterpart Sameh Shoukry since the two ministers met on the sidelines of the United Nations General Assembly last September, when Shoukry conveyed Egypt's agreement to be this year's chief guest for Republic Day.

Such detailed preparations became necessary for two reasons. First, India has not had any chief guest for Republic Day functions since Brazil's then president, Jair Bolsonaro, was given that honour three years ago. The Covid-19 pandemic put paid to such a practice. The arrival of Sisi is, therefore, a restart after pause, for Indian protocol. Second, with most incoming chief guests for the occasion, India has been engaged in business as usual. Not so with Egypt. This offers opportunities as well as challenges.

Air connectivity and tourism are areas which have been lagging. A meeting between Sisi and the Indian business community in New Delhi may provide a shot in the arm for these sectors where both countries have immense potential, but were neglected as newer tourist destinations like Dubai and the Maldives became available for both Indians and Egyptians. Sisi is set to return to India to attend the G20 summit later this year, when he and Modi will review progress in rejuvenating relations.

KEY REFORMS TO REVIVE INDIA'S FINTECH ECOSYSTEM

SHASHANK KUMAR
Razorpay MD and co-founder

The trackpath for the digitisation marathon is just getting laid. We are here for the long haul. Let me begin by saying that India is a bright spot amidst the global economic downturn. The World Bank projects that the country will become the fastest-growing economy among the seven largest emerging market economies. Our real GDP is estimated at 7% even as the inflation rate has been reined in. At this juncture, a spending boost through Budget 2023 will be conducive to our growth story.

Financial incentives to Make in India can promote the manufacturing sector. This, in turn, can boost investments and increase exports. Policy reforms announced in the budget can expand business possibilities and generate new employment opportunities. These investments can strengthen the development of thriving industries such as fintech.

MSMEs are the soul of the Indian economy. A self-sufficient or Atmanirbhar Bharat can be truly achieved only when the country's 63 million plus MSMEs have a conducive regulatory environment to engage in business activities. While the government has taken a series of steps to empower MSMEs including an economic relief package and prompt debt resolution, additional efforts to improve ease of doing business are welcome.

At the very outset, I believe that Budget 2023 can promote ease of doing business by a further simplification of the application process. This will mean that MSMEs can launch their business operations within a shorter duration. This can be supplemented with budgetary reforms such as an exclusive licensing regime for MSMEs, quicker registration, and credit support through low-interest or interest-free loans. Enabling the MSMEs to sell their products and services overseas and cross-border trade enablement can provide a further impetus to growth. To build a sustainable business ecosystem for MSMEs, the Union Budget 2023 can also introduce awareness campaigns and opportunities to collaborate as enablers for MSMEs. This can be supported by financial incentives and a seamless licensing process.

As a member of the fintech sector, I believe that there is a need to invest towards improving the digital delivery of financial solutions. The budget can aid this effort by encouraging partnerships between banks and fintech firms.

Collaboration platforms facilitated by the government to offer customised products will be beneficial for customers.

Fintech startups like us rely on our skilled workforce to take our business mission forward. Here, employee stock ownership plans (ESOPs) are a critical tool to attract talent. The current rules mandate tax payment at the time of exercise (purchase) of the ESOP option as well as when the shares are sold. Three years ago, the finance minister had permitted select startups to defer ESOP exercise taxes. I am hopeful that Budget 2023 will extend this benefit to all DPIIT-recognised startups.

> MSMEs are the soul of the Indian economy. A self-sufficient or Atmanirbhar Bharat can be truly achieved only when the country's 63 million plus MSMEs have a conducive regulatory environment to engage in business activities

Being nimble and agile, fintech startups have brought financial services to Indians' doorsteps. What can add to the proliferation of our services is streamlining the existing licensing process. While all the regulations are in place, the implementation hiccups need to be ironed out. For instance, there can be budget initiatives with respect to building a consolidated licensing regime for fintech firms.

The attractiveness of India is here to stay. A testament to our success is the fact that foreign-domiciled companies are keen to shift base to India. Some have already begun the process. To enable a seamless move, enabling a single window clearance system can be helpful.

Lending a helping hand to the MSMEs is one of the pivotal reasons for our industry's existence. I am of the opinion that budgetary support to fintech startups in the form of guarantee schemes will be beneficial to channelise credit flow.

In 2022, India minted 21 unicorns, of which three were fintech startups. The country has now become the world's third-largest fintech market according to a PwC report. Built on India Stack and energised by the Unified Payments Interface, our fintech market has grown by leaps and bounds. At the current growth levels, this market is estimated to reach a $150 billion valuation by 2025.

A multitude of reforms helped reshape digital banking in 2022. Cardless payments were enabled by Credit Card-UPI linking. Tokenisation helped create unique token-based card storage and better security for digital payments. Digital lending rules were tweaked to ensure that customer privacy was safeguarded.

This year, the cabinet has approved a ₹2,600 crore scheme to incentivise low-value UPI transactions and promote RuPay debit cards. I am of the view that financial incentives are necessary to nudge customers and businesses to go digital. To this effect, sops for digital payments continue to be important.

The Niti Aayog has already made a case for introducing a new category of financial institutions called digital banks. Putting this proposal on fast gear through budgetary allocations can be an added booster to the digital economy.

Our fintech journey has just started. India's demographic dividend has opened up unlimited opportunities for the fintech sector. With an industry size of more than 2,000 fintech entities, the scope to grow is aplenty.

The seal of approval from Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman will be a key motivator to expand our fintech offerings from the industry. The trackpath for the digitisation marathon is just getting laid. We are here for the long haul.

If 'basic structure doctrine' goes, our fundamental rights too will go, says Justice Madan Lokur

Verbatim

AS the friction between the government and the judiciary over the appointment of Supreme Court and high court and judges continues, former SC judge Justice Madan Lokur says the 'basic structure doctrine' has been accepted in several jurisdictions, and if it goes, the fundamental rights too will go along with it. The tug-of-war between the judiciary and Union Law Minister Kiran Rijiju has intensified in recent times as he termed the collegium system as 'opaque' in judicial appointments. Excerpts from an interview with Preetha Nair:

Union Law Minister Kiren Rijiju has endorsed the views of a retired high court judge, who said the Supreme Court "hijacked" the Constitution by deciding to appoint judges itself. Your reaction.
It is not clear what the Hon'ble Minister is trying to say. He should clarify. Is he suggesting that the judges of the Supreme Court are not sane? I hope not.

The CJI said the 'basic structure doctrine' was like 'North Star giving direction to the Constitutions when the path ahead is convoluted.' Do you think the attack on the basic structure is leading to a dangerous situation? What are the implications?
It is unfortunate, but not dangerous. The 'basic structure doctrine' has been accepted in several jurisdictions as mentioned by the Chief Justice. It will need a Bench of 15 judges to overthrow it. That's never going to be easy and I hope that day does not come to pass. If the 'basic structure doctrine' goes, all our inalienable and fundamental rights will also go sooner than later.

The CJI's remarks came against the backdrop of Vice President Jagdeep Dhankhar's recent criticism of the scrapping of the NJAC Act in 2015, his questioning of the Kesavananda Bharati case verdict, and the assertion that Parliament is supreme. How worrying is the trend?

No comment on that, except that it is very worrying.

Earlier, the SC collegium made public its reasons for reiteration and the government's objection to appointing at least three advocates as HC judges. Do you think the SC and the government have to be more transparent to end the stalemate?
Yes, there is a need for transparency without harming the reputation of any person. Justice Brandeis of the US Supreme Court had earlier said, "Sunlight is said to be the best of disinfectants". This pithily sums up the transparency issue.

The escalation in the tussle between the government and the judiciary is being seen as an extraordinary attack on the latter and to make it subservient...
The 'tussle' is not unprecedented. An attempt to have a committed judiciary was earlier made by former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, but it failed. The government is following in the footsteps of Mrs. Indira Gandhi.

The Minister has sent a follow-up letter on the restructuring of the Memorandum of Procedure (MoP) of the collegium system as directed by the Constitution bench. Can a government representative be included in the collegium?
The collegium is a collegium of judges. A person who is not a judge cannot be included in the collegium. It is up to the judges of the collegium to consult persons other than judges while taking a decision. In the past, the opinion of lawyers was taken by judges in the collegium.

Since 2015, different drafts of the MoP have been exchanged between the government and the CJI's office. What is the point of contention here?
The government should disclose the letter in which the objections have been raised. As far as I know, three objections were raised by the government. If I remember correctly, one was to the effect that a person who is a threat to national security cannot be appointed as a judge. Fair enough. But, tell me, does the government expect the collegium to recommend a person who is a threat to national security? Frankly, I don't remember the other two objections.

If the minister's suggestions are put into practice, what could be the fallout if a government representative is included in the collegium, whereas the existing system comprises only senior judges? Opposition parties call this remedy a poison pill for an independent judiciary...
The attempt of the government seems to be to have a committed judiciary. If we don't have an independent judiciary, you can imagine the consequences.

The government claims that the collegium lacks transparency and the role played by the government in choosing judges is important since judges do not have access to reports and other information that the government has...
The government sends all reports to the collegium. If the government withholds information from the collegium, it is very unfortunate.

Several legal luminaries have pointed out that there are inherent flaws in the collegium system. What is your view? What reforms are needed to make the system accountable and transparent?
Nobody says that the collegium system is perfect. No method of selection can be perfect. The selection process should be rigorous, and attempts should be made to minimize errors. Some reforms are needed everywhere.

Finally, what are your suggestions to end the impasse?
The functionaries concerned should sit across the table and have a dialogue in the best interest of the country.

Soon, govt to track & deport 3.5L 'rogue' foreign visitors

AMIT MUKHERJEE @New Delhi

THE Central government is set to introduce an upgraded 'track and deport' process to tackle the issue of foreigners staying in India illegally after their visit permits have expired.

As per home ministry sources, with over 3.5 lakh foreigners refusing to leave even after visa expiry, and many of them going untraceable, the government is looking at slapping serious criminal charges on those facilitating their illegal stay.

Also, the scope of the Su Swagatam app, which was launched in June 2021 for providing information to foreign visitors, is being "optimised" to ensure a more efficient monitoring system. Mission offices have been asked to expedite implementation of biometric and digitised physical profiling for visa processing, wherever it's pending, for better tracking of rogue visitors. "Date integrated with a super app will help in better monitoring," sources said.

The issue has again come in the limelight after the Delhi Police faced resistance when they tried to nab five Nigerians who were allegedly overstaying in India with expired visas.

Meanwhile, the 'Su Swagatam app' which provides facilities like visa application stage is being tweaked. "The app is also integrated with the Foreigners Regional Registration Office portal thereby facilitating foreign nationals to apply for visa extension, residential permit, exit permit, etc, and at the same time track violations," sources said, adding that the modification will leave less room for violations.

Officials are working with the Indian missions in over 50 countries to take advantage of the app available in 12 languages. A list of countries from where most visa violations take place is being made. "This would help effective pre-visa evaluations of persons from those nations," a source said.

SC to consider 3-judge bench for K'taka hijab ban

SHRUTI KAKKAR @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday agreed to consider setting up a three-judge bench for hearing pleas challenging the Karnataka High Court's ruling of upholding the prohibition on wearing hijab in educational institutions of the state following a split verdict.

Urging the bench, comprising the Chief Justice of India, DY Chandrachud, and Justices V Ramasubramanian and JB Pardiwala to list the pleas, senior advocate Meenakshi Arora submitted that although the girl students pursuant to the ban had started going to private institutions, the interim directions were required to permit them to appear for exams to held in government colleges from Febrary 6.

Considering Arora's submission, CJI Chandrachud said, "I will examine it. It's a three-judge bench matter."

A bench of Justices Hemant Gupta (now retired) and Sudhanshu Dhulia on October 13 delivered a split verdict. Justice Gupta said the practice of wearing hijab could be restricted by the state while Justice Dhulia said it was against the constitutional value of fraternity and integrity. The bench asked for placing the pleas before the CJI.

Saying that the government order dated February 5 directing government schools in Karnataka to abide by the prescribed uniform and private schools to mandate uniform as decided by their board of management necessarily excluded all religious symbols visible to naked eye, Justice Gupta said, "Anything worn by the students under his/her shirt cannot be said to be objectionable in terms of GO issued."

Justice Dhulia said: "If she wants to wear a hijab, even inside her classroom, she can't be stopped, if it is worn as a matter of her choice, as it may be the only way her conservative family will permit her to go to school, and in those cases, hijab is her ticket to education."

The apex court dismissed an appeal by Bhagwati Singh alias Pappu against the life term awarded to him in connection with the murder of national badminton champion Syed Modi in 1988. 'BBC maliciously tries to pin down our PM on mat'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

ALL India Bar Association chairman and senior advocate Dr Adish C Aggarwala has written to Home Minister Amit Shah, requesting him to order a 360-degree probe into an international conspiracy in BBC's recent documentary on Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

While welcoming the government's move to block YouTube channels and Twitter handles showcasing the documentary, Aggarwala has sought the constitution of an investigation team comprising a retired Supreme Court judge, jurists and investigators.

"This so-called documentary has nothing new to show or speak of. Much of its contents had been thoroughly circulated and discussed in public, considered and rejected by various courts, including the Supreme Court. The 20-year-old Gujarat riot has several layers to it, but this BBC tries to have a linear narrative, and quite maliciously tries to pin down our Prime Minister and the nation itself on the mat," the letter states.

In a 1st, women to be part of BSF camel contingent at R-Day parade

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

FOR the first time, 12 women camel riders will be participating as part of the famed Camel Contingent of the Border Security Force (BSF) during the Republic Day parade in Delhi on January 26.

The BSF on Monday said, "This is the first time BSF Mahila Camel Riders as part of BSF Camel Contingent will march on Kartavya Path during the Republic Day parade."

Marching atop the camels, these women camel riders will be donning specially designed regal ceremonial uniforms that represent the many treasured craft forms of India. The uniforms, assembled by a noted fashion designer, will comprise the iconic Jodhpuri bandhgala made of textured fabric featuring hand-crafted zardozi work for various trims done in the 400-year-old Danka technique from Banaras, the BSF said. The uniform is styled with the striking Pagh – a turban inspired by the heritage of the Mewar region of Rajasthan.

The BSF camel contingent has been participating in the Republic Day parade since 1976.

The contingent usually comprises 90 camels — 54 with troops and the rest with the band personnel.

The camel contingent is also a part of the Beating Retreat ceremony, which is held three days after Republic Day on January 29.

The BSF is the only force in the country to deploy camels for both operational and ceremonial duties. It is astride these camels that the bordermen, as the BSF personnel are called, patrol the Thar Desert along the borders with Pakistan.

Of its total 2,40,000 personnel, the BSF has around 8,000 women personnel, including around 140 officers. The women, as per sources, are deployed in all kinds of operational duties, like zero line patrolling and night observation post duties. The BSF has also deployed all-women floating Border Out Posts along the India-Bangladesh border under its water wing. The force also has an all-women daredevil motorcycle team called Seema Bhawani.

The BSF was raised on December 1, 1965 and it is primarily tasked with guarding international borders with Pakistan and Bangladesh.

India, France ink pact for AIP certification

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) and Naval Group, France on Monday inked a pact for the design certification of the energy module and Air Independent Propulsion (AIP). It will be ready to be fitted on board INS Kalvari once it is due for major refit.

The AIP once fitted on board a submarine acts as a force multiplier to its capability by enhancing the submerged endurance of the boat several fold. In comparison to the AIP systems being used by the navies worldwide, the indigenous fuel cell-based AIP is unique as the hydrogen is generated onboard. In 2021, the land-based prototype of the NMRL's AIP was tested successfully.

In October 2019, the DRDO had announced a breakthrough in the fuel cell-based AIP system for Indian Naval submarines.

Pakistan already operates submarines fitted with the AIP system.

WEF gender gap index to count women in local governance after India nudge

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @New Delhi

THE World Economic Forum (WEF) will count women's participation in local government bodies in its Global Gender Gap report after India's nudge, Women and Child Development (WCD) Minister Smriti Irani said on Monday.

Taking to Twitter, Irani, who was among the four Union ministers to participate in the WEF's Davos summit, said, "... We are happy to share that WEF has recognised the need to enumerate women's participation in local govt bodies in the Gender Gap Report. This big victory for 1.4 million grassroots women locally elected at the panchayat level in India."

She further tweeted that the WEF "confirming its willingness to study India's Gender Budget System is also a huge acknowledgement" of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's efforts to ensure women-led development."

In a letter to Irani, WEF managing director Saadia Zahidi said, "Your participation helped shape a new agenda for women empowerment, education and human development, drawing from the experiences and successes of public-private collaboration in India."

She also wrote that the forum would work with India to strengthen collaboration around the agenda of women and on improving global data collection and cross-country benchmarking efforts to assess in a globally comparable way participation of women in local political decision-making.

She also talked about showcasing on the Forum's digital platform the impact achieved by the Indian government through its gender budgeting system, promoting gender equality in all sectors and at all levels of governance.

"Establishing a Skills and Gender Parity Accelerator in India to identify and scale up targeted public-private initiatives that will prepare the Indian workforce for the future of work, support the development of the Indian digital, care and green economy, and expand the skills of women for the new economy," the letter said.

The WEF ranked India at 135th spot out of 146 countries in its GGG Index 2022. India has been ranking low on the index for several years. The Indian government has rejected the index, stressing that the ranking does not give a complete picture as it does not include women elected to local bodies.

Official sources said the step by WEF is a "big achievement" as none of the participating countries had ever flagged this issue of including women's participation in local governance.

Koshyari says he wants to step down as Maha guv

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

AMID controversial remarks of Maharashtra Governor Bhagat Singh Koshyari about social reformers and Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj, he on Monday publicly expressed his desire to step down from the Governor Office and the same has been conveyed to Prime Minister Narendra Modi in his recent visit to Mumbai.

In the series of tweets, Koshyari said, "During the recent visit of the Prime Minister to Mumbai, I have conveyed to him my desire to be discharged of all political responsibilities and to spend the remainder of my life in reading, writing and other activities." He further tweeted he can never forget the love and affection he has received from the people of Maharashtra during the last little more than three years. He had earlier said that PM Modi had asked him to be the governor of Maharashtra. He said he did not want to do any active role but Modi insisted him to be the governor of Maharashtra and that he could not turn it down.

Koshyari in his speech had said that Chhatrapati Shivaji is the old era hero while BJP leader Nitin Gadkari is the modern era hero. All these controversial statements backfired, giving ammunition to Oppositions that resulted in his decision to step down.

Cong distances from Digvijaya's Pulwama jibe

Jairam Ramesh says MP Cong leader's views on surgical strikes are his own & don't reflect Cong position

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE vintage Congress dissonance returned to flabbergast the party on Monday as it sought to distance itself from its senior leader Digvijaya Singh's remarks questioning the 2016 surgical strikes and the Pulwama attack in 2019.

"The views expressed by senior leader Digvijaya Singh are his own and don't reflect the position of Congress. Surgical strikes were carried out before 2014 by UPA government. Congress has supported, and will continue to support, all military actions that are in the national interest," AICC general secretary, communications, Jairam Ramesh tweeted.

In Srinagar, Digvijaya triggered a row by saying that there was "no proof" on the Army's 2016 surgical strikes and that no information was shared in Parliament about the 2019 Pulwama attack in which 40 CRPF men were killed. "The CRPF DG had demanded that Kashmir being a sensitive zone, the paramilitary personnel should be airlifted to Delhi from Srinagar through flights. But Modi turned it down," he said.

Digvijaya was speaking at Satwari in Jammu on Monday at a Bharat Jodo Yatra event.

He said in Pulwama every vehicle was being checked by security personnel. "However, a vehicle coming from the opposite direction was not checked. The vehicle later hit the CRPF bus, killing 40 CRPF men," said Digvijaya.

In a tweet in Hindi later, he said, "From where did the terrorists get 300 kg of RDX in Pulwama incident? DSP Davinder Singh was caught with terrorists but then why was he released? We also want to know about the friendship between the prime ministers of Pakistan and India."

On 2016 surgical strikes, the Congress leader said, "They talk of surgical strike and claim many people were killed. But there is no evidence. They (the government agencies) are ruling with a pack of lies."

Digvijaya's remarks drew flak from the BJP, which accused the Congress of insulting the armed forces after being "blinded" by its "hate" for PM Modi. BJP spokesperson Gaurav Bhatia hit out at the Congress saying such remarks showed that Rahul Gandhi-led Bharat Jodo Yatra was only in name while he and his party colleagues were working to "break" the country.

Rahul takes a dig at 'outsiders', bats for restoration of statehood

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi with supporters during the party's 'Bharat Jodo Yatra', in Jammu district on Monday | PTI

THE Congress would use all its force to restore statehood of Jammu and Kashmir, Rahul Gandhi said on Monday as his Bharat Jodo Yatra entered the Jammu city. He also said that people are complaining that J&K is being run by outsiders, and asked Lt Governor Manoj Sinha to apologise to Kashmiri Pandits for telling them not to "beg". Rahul resumed the yatra from the Vijapur area of Samba amid tight security measures. A delegation of Kashmiri Pandit employees met Rahul during the yatra and apprised him about their issues.

In the afternoon, the yatra entered the Jammu city amid heightened security measures after two bomb blasts had taken place in the Narwal area of Jammu city a few days back.

Addressing a gathering at Satwari area of Jammu, Rahul said there is no bigger issue than the statehood of J&K.

"Your entire rights have been snatched by the government," he said and asserted that Congress will support restoration of J&K's statehood and his party would use its full power for restoration of J&K's statehood.

Without talking of Article 370 or 35A, Rahul said, "People from different sections of the society walk with me during the yatra. They told me that earlier business in Jammu was done by Jammu people, but now, the entire trade is being done by outsiders. They also said that J&K was run by J&K people earlier, but now it is being run by outsiders".

He pointed out people complained that the administration is not hearing them. Rahul alleged that Kashmiri Pandits are facing injustice at the hands of the government.

"A delegation of Kashmiri Pandits met me. They said when their delegation met Lt Governor Manoj Sinha, he told them that they should not beg. They (KPs) are not begging but demanding their rights. The Lt Governor should apologise to them for his remarks," he said.

About 5000 PM package Pandit employees have been on a strike since May 12 last year after a Pandit employee was shot dead by militants in central Kashmir. They are demanding relocation to Jammu and allege that authorities have withheld their salaries.

Rahul said J&K has the highest level of unemployment in the country. He alleged that it is rising because the central government is only working for 2-3 industrialists.

Pocso for Assam men marrying girls under 14

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

THE Assam government will book men marrying minor girls under the POCSO Act and the Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said on Monday. A decision towards this effect was taken at a meeting of the state cabinet.

He said that men who would marry girls aged below 14 years would be tried under the POCSO Act. Those who would marry girls aged between 14 and 18 years would be dealt with under the Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, he added.

The state government would appoint a child protection officer in every village. The panchayat secretaries will be tasked to file an FIR with the police whenever there is an incident of child marriage under their jurisdiction. Sarma warned that action would be taken against them if they fail to do so.

He said that there are an estimated 1 lakh cases of child marriage in the state. The government asked the police to crack the whip against those who married minor girls in the past one year.

Sarma cited the National Family Health Survey-5 report to highlight how serious the problem in Assam is. He said an average of 31.8% of girls get married at the "prohibited age" and 11.7% of them become mothers before reaching adulthood. The national averages for the same are 23.3% and 6.8% respectively.

The Muslim-majority Dhubri tops the chart. Sarma said 50% of girls here get married before attaining the age of 18 years and 22% of them become mothers before reaching adulthood High rate of maternal and infant mortality in Assam is primarily due to child marriage.

In poll yr, changes in MP school textbooks, highway action plans

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

"As the CM of the state, I'm announcing that the saar (essence) of Bhagavad Gita, Ramcharitmanas, Ramayana and Mahabharata will be taught in all government schools of the state," Shivraj Singh Chouhan said at the RSS's Vidya Bharti's Sughosh Karyakram, to mark Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose's 126th birth anniversary, in Bhopal on Monday.

Hours later while addressing an event for unveiling and laying the foundation of road projects in religious town Orchha in Niwari district, attended by the Union Minister of road transport and highways Nitin Gadkari, the CM made more religious announcements.

"Why shouldn't we teach our students, our ancient scriptures, including the ones related to Lord Ram?" Chouhan asked. Taking a dig at those who make objectionable remarks about these religious scriptures, Chouhan said in Bhopal, "All those who denigrate our great men like Goswami Tulsidas and their sacred creations, will not be tolerated in MP. All these sacred scriptures will be taught to students in our government schools."

The MP CM again lashed out at those politicians, who are making objectionable remarks about Lord Ram. "Lord Ram is India's identity and life and those denigrating Lord Ram can't be tolerated," CM said.

Meanwhile, addressing the event in Orchha, Union Minister Nitin Gadkari announced to connect Ayodhya to Orchha. An action plan will soon be made for connecting Orchha to Ayodhya, he added. The programme was organised for laying the foundation of 18 road projects worth ₹6,800 crore at Orchha in Niwari district.

He said, "Like 84 Kosi Parikrama padpath is being constructed in Ayodhya, on the same lines, Shri Ram's Padpath should be constructed linking Orchha and area nearby. It should have action plan of things linked to the story of Lord Ram.

AN Orchidarium in 6th Mile Upper Shillong area has turned into the latest tourist attraction of Meghalaya's capital, Shillong. Thanks to the showcasing of Orchid flower plants in variegated hues, grown by 20 women entrepreneurs of the northeastern state.

Developed since 2019 in a 600-meter area Polly house, the Orchidarium showcases the colourful results of sustained process of central government's Department of Biotechnology's (DBT) direct funding and assistance, helping at least 20 women cultivators of Orchid plants turn into entrepreneurs in various districts of Meghalaya, including Shillong and East Khasi Hills district.

Housing the diverse genres of Orchid flower plants, the Orchidarium is supplying seed plants, cut flowers and potted plants of the multi-floral local and hybrid Orchid varieties to across the country.

"The Orchidarium was started in 2019, a few months before the pandemic struck. But with the decline in COVID cases since 2021, the 20 women entrepreneurs or cultivators of the local and hybrid varieties have attained sales of worth over Rs 7 lakh," said Dr JK Shukla, Scientist-E at the Institute of Bioresources and Sustainable Development (IBSD-Imphal) node in Shillong. The IBSD is a national institute of the central government's DBT.

The Orchidarium is now being further diversified through succulent and ornamental plants, besides cultivation of medicinal Orchid plants.

Enthused by the success of the DBT's institute, the DBT's not-for-profit public enterprise Biotechnology Industry Research Assistance Council (BIRAC) has embarked on a similar, but a bigger project of developing 100 more women entrepreneurs through Orchid plants cultivation in Meghalaya's district, Rhi-Bhoi.

Bihar murder convict translates Ramcharitmanas into 'Angika'

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

A murder convict lodged in Bihar's Bhagalpur central jail has translated religious epic 'Ramcharitmanas' into Angika, a language widely spoken in Bhagalpur, Munger and Banka districts of the state. The news emanating from the jail adds a different dimension to the ongoing controversy that erupted after Bihar Education Minister Prof Chandrashekhar had made objectionable remarks against Ramcharitmanas.

The murder convict, Harihar Prasad, a native of neighbouring Munger district, is a home guard and has been behind bars in Bhagalpur special jail since 2016. He was sentenced to life imprisonment in a murder case in 1991. He has already completed the translation while the proof reading of the translated work of epic is being done by jailor Manoj Kumar.

The prisoner, Harihar, has also written to the President Droupadi Murmu for remission of his sentence. He was motivated to translate Ramcharitmans into Angika by former jailor Rakesh Kumar Singh who was impressed with his good command over the language.

After Singh got transferred, the present jailor also encouraged him and persuaded him to continue his translation work.

He was provided pens and papers for his translation work. He has requested the jail administration to get his translated work to be published by the jail press itself. His good behaviour with inmates has made him the most popular in the special central jail, where hardcore Maoists and notorious gangsters are lodged.

Harihar wears 'pitambari' (a yellow cloth with religious significance) and recites Ramcharitmanas while sitting on a platform as other inmates sit around him and listen to him patiently. "This has changed the entire atmosphere in the prison," said jailor Manoj.

Around 1,700 prisoners are lodged in the special central jail against a sanctioned strength of 3,288. In the field of education, prisoners are provided the facility of education in the jail through National Institute of Open Schooling (NIOS), Bihar Board of Open Schooling and Examination (BBOSE), Nalanda Open University (NOU) and IGNOU. Besides that, NGOs are also involved in educational activities in the jails of Bihar.

Sunak orders investigation into wealthy ally's dubious tax dealings

LONDON

BRITISH Prime Minister Rishi Sunak on Monday ordered an investigation into a wealthy ally's murky tax dealings as he again vowed "integrity" in his government after Boris Johnson's scandal-plagued tenure.

As well as the probe into Conservative party chairman Nadhim Zahawi, Sunak faced hostile questions about the appointment of BBC chairman Richard Sharp, a former banker who acted as a go-between to help funnel a loan to Johnson when he was in 10 Downing St.

The apparent scandals surrounding well-off individuals threaten to become a political distraction for Sunak as he battles to restore the Conservatives' standing in the polls in the midst of Britain's worst cost-of-living crisis in decades.

Sunak refused to accede to opposition demands to fire Zahawi, who reportedly settled a seven-figure demand from tax authorities with a fine for late payment when he served briefly as chancellor of the exchequer last year under Johnson.

Ukraine set to receive German Leopard tanks

BERLIN/WARSAW

GERMANY is ready to authorise Poland to send German-made Leopard tanks to Ukraine to help Kyiv fight the Russian invasion if Warsaw makes such a request, Foreign Minister Annalena Baerbock said late on Sunday.

"If we are asked the question, then we will not stand in the way," Baerbock told LCI television after a Franco-German summit meeting in Paris.

"We know how important these tanks are and this is why we are discussing this now with our partners. We need to make sure people's lives are saved and Ukraine's territory liberated," Baerbock said.

It then emerged that Poland will ask Germany for authorisation. "We will seek this approval," Prime Minister Mateusz Morawiecki said.

Poland had announced it is ready to deliver 14 Leopard tanks to Kyiv but Prime Minister Mateusz Morawiecki said he was waiting for "a clear statement" from Berlin whether countries that have the Leopards can transfer them to Ukraine. He also described Germany's refusal to send its own tanks to Ukraine as "unacceptable". "Innocent people are dying every day," told the PAP agency.

In a joint statement Saturday, the foreign ministers of the three Baltic states urged Germany "to provide Leopard tanks to Ukraine now".

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky said Friday there was "no alternative" but for the West to give Ukraine heavy tanks. Reports earlier in the week indicated Germany would agree to do so only if the US provided its tanks as well. Washington has said providing its Abrams tanks to Ukraine is not feasible, citing difficulties in training and maintenance.

It comes as EU foreign ministers agreed on Monday to spend an extra 500 million euros from their common coffers on arms for Ukraine, diplomats said, as Kyiv pleads for heavier weapons. The accord will take the overall amount committed to supplying Ukraine's military from the bloc's common spending to 3.6 billion euros, which is separate from national spending by individual EU member states.

Apple eyeing 25% output from India, says Goyal

Currently, India accounts for 5-7% of Apple's total production

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

IPHONE maker Apple is planning to expand its manufacturing in India from the current 5-7% to 25% of its total production, commerce minister Piyush Goyal said on Monday.

"They are already at 5-7% of their manufacturing in India. If I am not mistaken, they are targeting to go up to 25% of their manufacturing," Goyal said at the Inception Meeting of Business 20 (B20), the official G20 dialogue forum with the global business community in Gandhinagar.

Amid Covid outbreak in China, the Cupertino-based company, with a market cap of $2.18 trillion, is looking to increase its manufacturing in India. On 6 November, Apple announced that the supply of iPhones 14 Pro and iPhone Pro Max models will remain subdued owing to tighter Covid policy in China's Zhengzhou, which houses the world's largest iPhone manufacturing facility in the world run by Foxconn.

Foxconn started making iPhone 14 in India in Sept

Foxconn, started manufacturing the latest iPhone 14 series in India in September, last year, the same month it was launched worldwide. Meanwhile, production of iPhone 13 kicked off six months after its global launch

Apple has three contract manufacturers in India - Foxconn Hon Hai, Pegatron, and Wistron and are located in Tamil Nadu and Karnataka.

Foxconn, started manufacturing the latest iPhone 14 series in India in September, last year, apparently the same month, it was launched worldwide. Meanwhile, production of iPhone 13 kicked off six months after its global launch. As per reports, Foxconn is also mulling to quadruple the workforce at its Indian iPhone factory over a period of two years. Besides this, Pegatron also began making iPhones in India in the month of November.

All the three Apple manufacturers have been chosen for cash incentives under the government's Production-linked Incentive (PLI) scheme.

As per reports, Apple shipped 1.9 million iPhones in October-December quarter and is the sixth leading smartphone vendor in India.

'Not enough jobs created due to PLI'

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

BEFORE expanding the production-linked incentive scheme (PLI), which promises to bring a whole host of benefits for various industries across sectors, the government needs to evaluate its merits and demerits with all data about its performance, former Reserve Bank of India Governor Raghuram Rajan said on Monday.

According to him, not enough quality jobs have been created in the country due to this much-touted scheme to boost local manufacturing.

"The public deserves more information and a more informed debate when lakhs of crores of public money are at stake. If it is not going to create crores of jobs, India needs (thus far, the scheme has created 3% of the anticipated additional employment of 0.6 crores, while 15% of anticipated investment has already come in), the sooner we shift to schemes that will work, the better," Rajan said. As per Rajan, more data about its performance is needed, at least in the industries where the scheme has run for some time.

"For proper assessment, the government has to make more data available... But without more analysis, we can't reject the possibility that this is an enormous and possibly misdirected transfer of public resources to large domestic and foreign firms. "PLIs to industries where large industrialists were anyway going to make investments is a pure freebie to them. That they invest and produce cannot be seen as a "success".

"This is why the process by which the government decides which industries are to be favored has to be transparent, and open to questioning by the interested public. It is not," he added. "As PLI schemes depend upon exports, the present global situation isn't conducive for the manufacturing companies to comply with the parameters set in the schemes to avail incentives," Pronab Sen, economist and former chief statistical officer of India, told this newspaper.

'More data about PLI scheme performance needed'

According to Rajan, not enough quality jobs have been created in the country due to this much-touted scheme to boost local manufacturing. As per Rajan, more data about its performance is needed, at least in the industries where the scheme has run for some time

Vistara turns profitable ahead of merger with AI

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

BEFORE its merger with Air India Group, Vistara, a joint venture between Tata Sons and Singapore Airlines, on Monday for the first time since inception, clocked quarterly net profit (excluding unrealised foreign currency loss and non-operating income) for the quarter ending December 2022.

Vistara was established in 2013. The airline, however, didn't disclose how much profit it made for the quarter ending December 2022, but said it crossed the $1 billion revenue mark, remained EBITDA positive in the current fiscal year (FY22-23) and reported breakeven for the first time in the quarter ended December 2022.

This announcement by Vistara comes after its two stakeholders- Tata Sons and Singapore Airlines- in November 2022 had announced the merger of Air India and Vistara. This merger, which will bring together two Tata Group run full service carriers, is expected to be complete by March 2024, subject to regulatory approvals. Post this, brand Vistara will cease to exist. Vistara said it achieved the highest ever domestic market share of 10.4% in July 2022 and maintained its position as the second largest domestic airline in India since then, flying more than 11 million passengers in the calendar year 2022. Vistara grew its international network by over 180% in 2022.

Wipro layoff: Employee union writes to govt seeking action

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

FOLLOWING IT company Wipro's move to let go of 452 freshers stating they performed poorly in assessments, employee union Nascent Information Technology Employees Senate (NITES) has written to the labour ministry seeking necessary actions regarding layoff.

Last week, Wipro had fired 452 freshers and the company said they performed poorly in assessments repeatedly even after providing training. "This systematic and comprehensive performance evaluation process triggers a series of actions such as mentoring and retraining and in some cases separation of certain employees," the company had said. Earlier on September 24, 2022, NITES submitted a complaint with the labour department regarding Wipro's delay in onboarding selected candidates.

Harpeet Singh Saluja, president, NITES said they received information from a group of students who were given offer letters by Wipro between September 2021 and January 2022 about delay in onboarding.

"Around February 2022, they received selection emails and offer letters with packages of ₹3.5 lakh per year. The company told employees that either they have to pay for training or else they need to undergo an unpaid internship and a training programme... the unpaid internship started around March-April 2022 and ended around July 2022. ....now there are students who have received illegal termination letters by the company."

"These students and employees have rejected offers from other companies keeping their faith in Wipro that someday the company will hire them. Not a single rupee has been given to these employees by Wipro," Saluja added.

In its termination letter to freshers, Wipro said, "Post your Project Readiness Program (PRP) completion, we conducted an offline technical assessment, in which your score was below 20%. This does not meet the passing criteria... Your last working day will be considered as 20 January 2023."

Also, the company informed those employees it terminated saying that the training cost of Rs 75,000 which they were liable to pay will be waived off.

'Freshers scored below 20% in assessment test'

In its termination letter to freshers, Wipro said, "Post your Project Readiness Program (PRP) completion, we conducted an offline technical assessment, in which your score was below 20%. This doesn't meet passing criteria... Your last working day will be considered as Jan 20, 2023

Zomato 'rebranding' 10-min delivery service Instant

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

FOODTECH platform Zomato on Monday said it is looking to rebrand its 10-minute delivery service Zomato Instant.

Claiming that it would not shut down the service and that no employees will be impacted by this decision, it said it is working on a new menu.

"Instant is not shutting down. We are working on a new menu with our partners and rebranding the business. All finishing stations remain intact, and no people are impacted by this decision," said a Zomato spokesperson. With much hype, the publicly listed firm had launched the 10-minute food delivery in March 2022. The service was first launched in the National Capital Region and Bengaluru. It had then said the service was launched as consumers are "increasingly demanding quicker answers to their needs". The rebranding of 'Zomato Instant' comes at a time when the company laid off 3% of its workforce. The firing, as per Zomato, was based on regular performance. In recent times, there have been high profile exits from Zomato. Its co-founder and chief technology officer Gunjan Patidar quit the firm earlier this month after a stint of over 10 years.

SAT SETS ASIDE DISGORGEMENT ORDER ON NSE

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE Securities and Appellate Tribunal (SAT) on Monday set aside Securities and Exchange Board of India's (Sebi) disgorgement order of ₹625 crore against the NSE in the co-location trading scam. NSE will have to pay ₹100 crore to Sebi's Investor Protection Fund for its failure to conduct due diligence, according to the SAT order.

"We set aside the order of the whole-time member (WTM) directing disgorgement of an amount of ₹624.89 core alongwith interest at the rate of 12% p.a. against NSE," the SAT order stated. Disgorgement is paying back gains that have been made illegally. In 2019, Sebi passed a series of orders against the NSE and its former chief executives, Chitra Ramkrishna and Ravi Narain, alleging that the exchange did not exercise due diligence when putting in place a network that allowed high-frequency traders unfair access to some network servers at the exchange. Sebi had ordered the NSE to deposit nearly ₹1,100 crore, including interest, in an investor fund and barred it from raising money on the securities market directly or indirectly for six months.

NSE asked to pay ₹100 crore

NSE will have to pay ₹100 crore to Sebi's Investor Protection Fund for its failure to conduct due diligence, according to the SAT order

It had also asked Narain and Ramkrishna to return 25 % of the salaries they had received during the relevant period. The tribunal ruled that Sebi's disgorgement was unjust and that the exchange and its former officials did not enrich themselves. "The direction prohibiting Ravi Narain and Chitra Ramkrishna from associating with any listed Company or a market infrastructure institution or any other market intermediary for a period of five years is set aside and substituted for the period undergone by them," said the order. The order also stated that the stock exchange did not make any illicit gains in the co-location case. "The direction to disgorge must be in relation to any transaction or activity, which is in contravention of the provisions of the SEBI Act or its regulations," SAT said.

RBI extends deadline for locker agreement renewal

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

IN a huge relief to customers, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) on Monday extended the deadline for renewal of agreements for existing safe deposit locker to 31 December 2023.

The RBI said banks will have to complete the process of renewal of agreements in a phased manner and asked them to unfreeze lockers that may have been frozen due to non-renewal of agreement.

"It has come to the notice of RBI that a large number of customers are yet to sign revised agreement. Honda two-wheelers to launch first electric vehicle in March 2024

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

TOP two-wheeler maker Honda Motorcycle and Scooter India (HMSI) will launch its first electric scooter in March 2024.

"We are looking to launch the first electric model in March 2024...it is being developed on a completely new platform and is based on the requirements of Indian market," said Atsushi Ogata, managing director, President and CEO of HMSI on Monday.

Ogata also said it is lining up multiple products in the electric vehicle (EV) segment. The first model next year would come with a fixed battery, while the second one would come with a swappable battery system. Ogata said the company is considering utilising HMSI's existing sales infrastructure of more than 6,000 outlets to set up charging infrastructure for its EV range and later depending on the market situation would take a call on expanding it further.

When asked about the launch timelines for the EV product range, he said, "It will not be far away from the launch of the first model. So in a very short period, we will launch new products." The Japanese automaker is late on launching an EV as rival two-wheeler firms such as Hero MotoCorp, Bajaj Auto and TVS Motor already have battery-powered scooters in their line-up.

HMSI on Monday launched a new version of its Activa scooter which conforms to the upcoming stricter emission norms, with price starting at ₹74,536 (ex-showroom Delhi).

Benzema shines as Madrid trump Bilbao

MADRID: Karim Benzema scored for the sixth time after being dropped from France's World Cup squad because of an injury, leading Real Madrid to a 2-0 win at Athletic Bilbao in the Spanish league on Sunday. The goal allowed Benzema to join former Madrid great Raul with 228 league goals with the club — second to Cristiano Ronaldo's 311.

FINDING ORDER IN DISORDER

Loss to the Black Sticks reflection of mediocre World Cup with unforced errors, shaky decisions & mental pressure

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Bhubaneswar

IT'S the morning after the night before. The only people at the Kalinga Stadium are the ones who are paid to be here. Sixteen hours removed from the drama of Sunday night, it feels like the world's worst hangover is beginning to hit. In hindsight, it is poetic that Indian men's hockey's best moments over the last four-five decades came when there was nobody to watch it. As soon as the fans returned, that fear of failure seemed to have gripped them thanks to the weight of 15,000 people watching their every step. It also explains why at training sessions inside Bengaluru's Sports Authority of India (SAI) campus, the players executed penalty corner variations with success. At the World Cup, all those weeks of planning melted.

In Tokyo, PR Sreejesh climbed on top of the goal. It was an apt metaphor to suggest a high had been reached in a sport where the country has seldom managed to marry reality with expectation. In Bhubaneswar, the Indian players hit the turf, disappointment writ large on their faces. It was an apt metaphor to suggest the Tokyo high was an aberration and not the new normal. To a few people, this may seem like revisionism. The game against New Zealand did come down to the barest of margins and this piece would have been about their fighting spirit and grit if the centimetres had gone in their favour. Yet, the game against the Black Sticks was, by and large, how their World Cup went. Unforced errors, multiple mistakes, shaky decision making and a certain sort of fear paralysis. No other thing tacitly explains why coach Graham Reid, a man who counts people management among his skills, admitted that this team may be better served with a permanent mental coach.

When he made that claim, it was hard not to wonder about what was going through Harmanpreet Singh's mind. After junior World Cup gold in 2016 and a significant member of the team that won bronze in 2021, he had become the public face of this disheartening campaign. A captain who was appointed to the post weeks before the tournament, he was expected to shoulder the responsibility of scoring the bulk of goals from penalty corners apart from being the main man at the back. Against the Black Sticks, he became an easy target. A hurried penalty in the shoot-out and several misses from the set plays in normal time wasn't a good look but it's not like he had a bad game. Or even a bad tournament. In fact, he has the second most number of passes (173), leads for interceptions (15) and fifth best for blocks (9) among all players in Odisha. But he wasn't at his best during penalty corners. He took 13 of those but only one found its way into the goal. Even in a world where drag-flickers are finding it tough to convert, that's a rate of 7%. Why did India decide to change the captain so late in the piece?

The defender, who looked shellshocked during the entirety of the press conference, said he didn't feel any extra pressure. "It is a team game," he said. "Everybody has been talking about my (lack of) penalty corner conversions. But I had not gone into a match without wanting to score. I feel no pressure. I have to work harder and the same for the team also."

Perhaps, there is a subtle message in that. Since that Tokyo high, the side, at least gradually, have lost the one edge they had over almost every side they came up. Fitness. It's not like the warning signs weren't there. In the final of the Commonwealth Games last year, Australia's technical profile wasn't the only factor that led to them winning 7-0. Physically, they were quicker and stronger. They comfortably outran India. It was similar against the Kiwis. It wasn't a coincidence that by the time the fourth quarter came around, the visitors were making the play.

It's also increasingly clear that the teams facing India know what they are all about. Counter-attacks, individual brilliance and threat from penalty corners. Both the Welsh and the New Zealand coaches spoke about how India are all about it. When what you do becomes an open secret, it's easier to plan. Take for instance what Greg Nicol said after the press conference. "We noticed that their right hand side was hurting us," he said. "Every time they counter-attacked, they drifted to that side. We spoke about it in the second half."

Few active internationals know the Indian side as well as Vincent Vanasch, the seasoned Belgian custodian who's aiming to win his second World Cup. When he made his debut at Chennai in 2008, Belgium were losing to the elite sides. These days, they are the definition of elite. Having not lost to India at an FIH event since 2015 (not counting Pro League), Vanasch is ideally placed to tell why Belgium has had a lot of success.

In the past, they were the champions, he says. "The game has changed also, with another dynamic. If you see, if we have to go one on one with an Indian player, we lose. That's for sure. But our team characteristics make up for the difference. That's how we have built the team so far. It's not about individuality because there we are gonna lose the game against India, that's for sure. If we can play together, we're gonna match up and we win that game. Today, you can see how complete we are, tactically, technically, physically, mentally, emotionally, everything... that's where I think we can make a difference." This, Vanasch says, is what made Belgium world beaters. It's the same journey India will have to undertake if they are to become world beaters.

FIH ODISHA HOCKEY MEN'S WORLD CUP 2023

POINTS TO PONDER

With India out of title contention in the World Cup before the business end of the tournament, a look at the areas where they can improve ahead of the Asian Games in Hangzhou later this year. A look...

BENCH STRENGTH

What made Australia the sport's primal team was this. They had 40 players of mostly similar profiles who were all capable of challenging each other and lifting each others' levels. That's not true with India. Post the Olympics bronze in Tokyo, India tried 30+ players. That the squad didn't win the Asia Cup and the Asian Champions Trophy (the country opted for experimental sides with about half of the players not in the first team scheme of things) in the last 13-14 months is indicative that the rung below the first 15 or so isn't of the requisite standard. That only one player from the 2021 junior World Cup squad eventually made it to the senior World Cup team doesn't look good.

LEAGUE CULTURE

The Hockey India League was widely credited with a) rising fitness levels and going toe to toe with some of the world's best players and b) winning the junior World Cup in 2016. After the league closed down before 2019, the Indian players have all been locked down in camps for 200 days in a year. The world's best teams all have well established league structures. Hockey India has to either bring back the HIL or allow players access to the leagues in some of the other countries.

KEEP REID

HI's policy of firing coaches is infamous but they should resist the temptation to sack the Australian. If he walks after the WC, that's a different conversation but he has enough goodwill in bank. So, one disappointment shouldn't lead to something radical. With the Asian Games in 7-8 months and the Olympics 10 months after that, time to start medium-term planning.

Jadeja seeks match-fitness in Ranji Trophy

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @Chennai

ALL-rounder Ravindra Jadeja, who has been on the sidelines for the last five months due to an injury, will be making a comeback to competitive cricket, leading Saurashtra in their last Ranji Trophy league match against Tamil Nadu at the MA Chidambaram Stadium from Tuesday.

Having been out of action since August 2022 — he was ruled out of 2022 Asia Cup midway and subsequently underwent knee surgery — Jadeja had been going through his rehab at the National Cricket Academy in Bengaluru. With his inclusion for the upcoming four-Test series against Australia subject to fitness, Jadeja is expected to gain some valuable match time to prove his fitness. "I am feeling good to be back on the field. I am very excited and looking forward to this game. Hopefully, it'll come good as a team and as an individual also," Jadeja told the media on Monday. "My first priority is to get on the field and be 100 per cent fit. Once I'll regain that level, I will work on my skills, whether it's batting or bowling but my first priority is my fitness," he said.

Ravindra Jadeja | SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

Admitting that it was the longest he had to stay away from the game, Jadeja said it was a challenging period for him. "You feel bad. Nobody wants to get injured at your peak. It is part of the game. You have to keep that in mind and be prepared for it. You can't do anything. There is no guarantee that one won't get injured in cricket," he said.

"Fortunately, I was busy with some other things. I was not thinking too much about cricket, two-three months after I got injured and had my surgery. I was busy with some election things, that helped me a lot," said Jadeja. The all-rounder campaigned for his wife Rivaba who contested and won in the Gujarat Assembly elections on a BJP ticket.

On the eve of the match, Jadeja, who had a prolonged warm-up session before the skill sessions, went through his routines under the watchful eyes of Sudarsan VP, strength and conditioning coach from the NCA. Sudarsan, who has previously worked with the Indian team, is in Chennai just to look after Jadeja and see how he fares over the next four days. After the match, both Sudarsan and Jadeja are expected to return to the NCA.

For Jadeja, it is all about taking it slow and how he performs in all three departments of the game. "I was at the NCA for 20 days. I was doing batting and bowling but the match scenarios are different. I wanted one game before the Australia series, that's why I am here. I will try to give my 100 per cent. I will try to go slow. Let's see how my legs are feeling and then we will see," he signed off.

With series in pocket, India search for perfect combo

GOMESH S @Chennai

THE series might have been won, but for India, the third and final ODI against New Zealand is as important as the other two games they have played so far. Their head coach Rahul Dravid said as much on the eve of the match in Indore on Monday.

Now, apart from the regular 'every game you play for your country is important' quote, Dravid has a point. The third ODI will be India's sixth in the format this year. The number will get to nine in March — three ODIs against Australia — but will remain there till July with a home World Cup set to be played in October. Which is why, for the hosts, every match is important. Every outing is an opportunity to figure out their best pool of 20 players to pick from by the time the marquee event comes along.

"You are probably looking at 15 games (before the World Cup). I think we have already narrowed down on our group of players we want and we are almost there. It is just about ensuring that we play them more in one day cricket and prioritise this format," Dravid said on Monday.

So far, India has had their share of positives. Shubman Gill has owned his place, Virat Kohli is scoring runs, Mohammed Shami and Mohammed Siraj are taking wickets, and so is Kuldeep Yadav. While KL Rahul is likely to be back for Australia series, there is a question on Suryakumar Yadav and whether he can translate his T20 success to 50-over format. Skipper Rohit Sharma is searching for a big score and then there is Hardik Pandya, who is yet to put up an impactful performance with the bat.

Skipper Rohit Sharma (L) and Rahul Dravid on Monday | AFP

And they could not have asked for a better place to turn up than Indore. It is a place where ball travels far. It is a venue where the bowlers dread bowling for how easy batting can be. The last time they batted here, both Rohit and Pandya scored fifties. Coach Dravid expects it to be a high-scoring game. Meanwhile, there could be a few changes in the bowling department as well to ensure game time for some who are in the waiting. Yuzvendra Chahal might get a game, same with Umran Malik with either Shami or Siraj sitting out.

For India, Tuesday is all about ticking the boxes. And irrespective of the result, they would be a happy side so long as they come out of the game doing just that.

WITH THE SERIES SEALED, MEN IN BLUE WILL BE LOOKING TO COMPLETE A 3-0 WIN AGAINST NEW ZEALAND. A LOOK...

EYES ON SKY

This could be Suryakumar Yadav's last chance to make a mark in the 50-over format. He is the first name in the T20I team sheet, but that is not the case for ODIs. The third ODI could be his chance before Shreyas Iyer comes back into the playing XI in India's next assignment.

WILL WASHINGTON STEP UP?

While Ravindra Jadeja is hoping to prove match fitness in Washington Sundar's hometown, the latter is still trying to prove himself as the vital ODI all-rounder in the lower-order. He was amongst wickets in the second ODI and would be keen on proving a point on Tuesday.

THE BLACK CAPS TOP-ORDER

On paper, Finn Allen, Devon Conway, Henry Nicholls, Daryl Mitchell and Tom Latham looks a formidable five. However, they have not shown up for New Zealand in this series so far. And there is no better time to do so than the final match of the series to avoid a clean sweep.

Locked passports, Schengen visa add to wrestlers' woes

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

EVEN as the five-member oversight committee was announced on Monday, Indian wrestlers' participation in the upcoming Zagreb Open Ranking Series still seems unrealistic. The event in Croatia is scheduled between February 1 to 5.

The committee headed by MC Mary Kom is not only supposed to probe allegations of sexual misconduct and other charges against Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) president Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh but also oversee the day-to-day functioning of the federation. But it will be an uphill task for it to complete the visa formalities with only a week remaining before the event. The team has already been selected (gold medallists of the 2022 senior nationals). The visa process also started before the wrestlers' protest. As the process was on, passports and visa application forms of most of the wrestlers are lying at the WFI office, which is housed at the government allotted bungalow of the embattled WFI chief on Ashoka Road in New Delhi. The office is apparently locked since the sports ministry asked the WFI to suspend all ongoing activities. The oversight committee is supposed to take the charge but it might take at least a day or two for it to collect wrestlers' documents. Besides, Croatia became the 27th country in the Schengen zone at the start of this year which means wrestlers wishing to compete there will have to procure a Schengen visa.

"WFI was awaiting the ministry's clearance before the protest halted the process. It's not a big issue but now they need a letter from the Croatian federation for its embassy here in the country. Besides, they need to book an appointment at the Croatia VFS centre. The Schengen visa means the wrestlers will have to complete additional formalities," said a coach.

It was learnt that the Sports Authority of India (SAI) wanted the wrestlers to participate in Zagreb but time doesn't seem to be in its favour. The event is important as it gives wrestlers ranking points, which in turn help them in getting seedings for World Championships. The Worlds will be the first Olympic qualifier in wrestling for the 2024 Games.

EXPLORING CELLS TO THE T

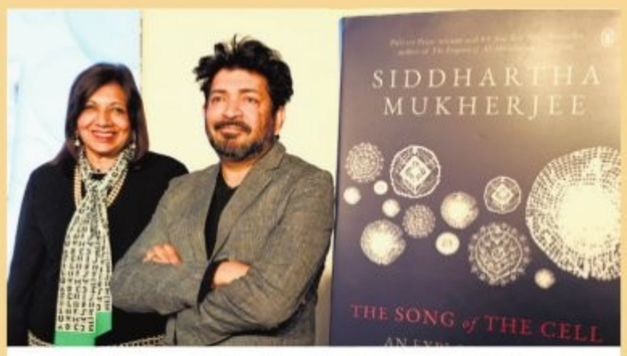
In Bengaluru for the launch of his book The Song of the Cell, Pulitzer Prize-winning author and cancer physician Dr Siddhartha Mukherjee speaks to CE about his writing practice, looking at mental health from a cellular perspective having battled depression himself, and the present-day revolutionary innovations in biology

TUNIR BISWAS & VIDYA IYENGAR

ON one of the many visits of eminent cancer physician and celebrated author Dr Siddhartha Mukherjee to India, he was informed of a case of a little boy battling cancer. When he went to the hospital to meet the child, the latter confided in him that his father worked as a security guard at a luxury hotel: the same hotel where the doctor had stayed multiple times and happened to know him. In a coincidental case of fates coming together, Dr Mukherjee rolled up his sleeves and worked with the oncology team to cure the child. He is now completely healed and Dr Mukherjee played a significant role in the nursing process.

"There can't be any greater joy than seeing a healthy patient who would otherwise not be alive today. That child walked into the hospital on the brink of death but walked out completely alive and fine. Very soon, he, who loves playing football, will be able to integrate back into his life. And this would hopefully be a distant but important memory for him," says Dr Mukherjee.

Recently in Bengaluru for the formal release of his latest literary endeavour The Song of the Cell: An Exploration of Medicine and the New Human, the doctor was at The Museum of Art and Photography (MAP). His book, the fourth in his bibliography, was unveiled by Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw, executive chairperson and founder of Biocon Limited and Biocon Biologics Limited.



At the launch event, Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw unveils Dr Siddhartha Mukherjee's latest book The Song of the Cell | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

While Dr Mukherjee has assisted in the recovery of countless ill patients, he fell into a deep spell of depression right in the middle of writing the book. The doctor believes that experience was instrumental in directing the narrative of The Song of the Cell. "I wanted to have the idea of mental health destigmatised. And the only way to remove the stigma of mental health is to think about it, not only as a psychosocial and environmental effect but at a cellular level. People still have this impression that disorders of mental health are something that you can just 'snap out of'. But turning the focus and rethinking about mental health at the cellular level, while not denying the psychosocial and environmental situational aspects of grief, really helps. Think about it as an organic illness, much like any other illness. At least, that's how it helped me," shares Dr Mukherjee, who has been working with cells since 1993.

He mentions that he has pointed out new forms of medications as mechanisms to think about mental health in the book. He does this while reflecting on the entire history of the cell, cellular pathology and 'revolutionary' mechanisms of modifying T cells to treat cancer, an area in medicine he has been working on at Immuneel Therapeutics alongside Mazumdar-Shaw, who co-founded the institute with him.

He had previously won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for General Non-Fiction, for his debut book The Emperor of All Maladies: A Biography of Cancer. When it comes to writing his books, Dr Mukherjee has a unique style. While he chronicles the history of hefty topics in medicinal historiography, he laces the narrative with anecdotes of his own experiences as a physician in the field. This approach, he feels, makes his books more accessible to the general public.

"My interest in writing grew over time. There's a hunger or a curiosity among people to understand more about the scientific world of medicine and biology. And the books are written to respond to that need. They are part of my larger intellectual project to make knowledge and medicines accessible. My writing practice involves everything I know – from my personal experiences as a physician, often times my personal experiences as a father and patient, all the way to my experiences as a scientist. There are elements of memoir in my books as well as elements of deep science, history and philosophy," he says, adding that we are currently undergoing one of the most revolutionary times of biological research and innovation.

Working as a physician and scientist means working in a world of research, diseases and to an extent, morbidity. Dr Mukherjee believes when dabbling in more imaginative fields like writing, his wife, widely recognised American artist Sarah Sze, and her work keeps him engaged with creativity. "Sarah and I are not just life partners, but also we're partners in our creative pursuits. She is the first person who reads my books. I'm one of the first people who go to the studio to look at her work. I think our creative pursuits are interlinked. They may not seem so on paper, but behind it, the urge to make a difference and to bring something new to the world is a shared constant in our lives," he concludes.

A city-based company is bringing its dance-drama production Naga Mandala, based on the folklore by the same name

Where dance meets drama

EXPRESS FEATURES

INDIAN folktales have proved time and again how they have been ahead of the times. Back in 1988, when playwright Girish Karnad wrote the play Nagamandala which is a love story that blends fantastical elements, it was already an established folklore. After many successful theatrical adaptations, city-based Punyah Dance Company is all set to perform Naga Mandala, a dance-drama adaptation of the tale, which is happening January 25, at ADA Ranga Mandira, JC Road.

Hailing from North Karnataka, Parshwanath Upadhye, the director of the dance company who conceptualised the show, says most of his works are adapted from mythological stories. "Folklore was always there in the society and we still keep hearing about them. I must have heard a different version from my granny and I have watched the play also before Karnad sir's play got famous. So the particular production is not an adaptation of that play. Here, the main plot has been kept the same. The story is about a couple and there is an involvement of the snake in the story. So there is a merge of fantasy as well as realistic elements which sometimes leaves it open to interpretation," explains Upadhye.

The show, which has Upadhye, Shruti Gopal and Adithya PV in the lead roles, narrates the story using the folk music form of gigi pada. "Here, we have taken the folk art form gigi pada as the main base for the entire story. The dance form is more of a folk song style where a female singer is the lead and there are two other musicians as accompanists. In this particular art form, Bharatanatyam has also been merged," says Upadhye. He further explains, "The choreographic elements have been given more emphasis. In Bharatanatyam, we do not have dialogues, we convey everything through facial and body abhinaya and hasta mudras. This works interestingly for this particular piece because even the audience will be more involved in finding out what we are trying to say."

The Plot

The story revolves around newly-wedded Rani, who is neglected by her husband. Frustrated by this, she ventures into a mystic forest in search of a magical flower with which she brews a love potion. When the potion accidently falls on an ant hill housing a shape-shifting snake, it falls in love with Rani and takes the shape of her husband.

Parshwanath Upadhye, theatreperson

The performance is divided into four sections, starting with Surli, where Rani is constantly rejected by her husband. The second part is Hanati, which represents the inner desires of Rani, and then the third one is Aakasmika, which explains that nothing happens by accident. The show ends with Dwanda that lets the audience interpret the dual mindset of the characters.

This is the first time that Naga Mandala is being performed in Bengaluru. Previously, it premiered at Kalavaahini's Dance for Dance Festival in Chennai. Next, the show will travel to Mumbai.

Fans rocked hard as Metallica performed in the city at Palace Grounds back in the day

Headbanging to B'lore's Rock n Metal Past

OPEN SPACE
Hrithik Kiran Bagade
Assistant News Editor
hrithik@newindianexpress.com

PALACE Grounds! How many memories bind us – 'the Young of Old Bangalore' – to this grand maidan, with it playing host to many circuses, exhibitions and fairs over the decades! And then there were the concerts, performances, gigs, and acts of the who's who from the global rock and metal scene – a fond highlight of Bengaluru, which was then 'Bangalore'.

As a metalhead myself, I can intricately recollect Bangalore's love for rock and metal music. In 2011, Palace Grounds was electrified, and sanctified, by the vocals, riffs, and beats that followed Master of Puppets, Enter Sandman, and Unforgiven. Metallica headlined, and the arena was packed. I worked at another major daily then. I had a colleague who shared my love for all things metal, and we decided to wrap up work early and head to the venue. When you attend a metal concert, it's sort of customary to sport a black tee, preferably with an insignia of the playing band. Accordingly, with our black tees on, we arrived to headbang and mosh at Palace Grounds.

The concert was a gift, watching James Hetfield, Kirk Hammett, Robert Trujillo, and Lars Ulrich play right in front of you, and Bangalore was awestruck. Metallica further scintillated Bangalore's rock and metal music heart.

Metallica was in India as part of the Rock 'n India music festival, and Bangalore was chosen to feature the legendary American heavy metal band. The festival had opened in 2008, getting Indians, and specifically Bangaloreans, to headbang to numbers by several iconic bands. Opening with Megadeth and Machine Head, the festival also featured British metal sensation Iron Maiden, all enthralling Bangalore in the years that followed.

My initiation into rock and metal happened during a school trip in 2001. A classmate's Walkman contained a Linkin Park cassette, and I was hooked. I have heard my brethren of this genre confess the role of Linkin Park early in life for their musical transformation, and I guess it's true as in my experience too. Over the years, I witnessed the brilliance of Kreator, Opeth, Children of Bodom, and Suidakra, to name a few metal bands, while I also had the joy to behold Roger Waters, Mark Knopfler and Bryan Adams perform in namma Bengaluru. And it wasn't just Palace Grounds. Several large venues around town hosted these class acts, while also providing stage to budding, as well as successful Indian bands and artistes, to flourish.

Sadly, perhaps this was just a phase in the city's glorious musical journey. The concert scene, especially of this magnitude, has all but vanished. There have been no big bands coming – blame it on issues economic, logistic, or pandemic. Recently, Michael Learns To Rock did play to a crowd at a popular bar, and there are many such concerts or solo acts organised at smaller venues, but seldom anything as Metallica in 2011 on Palace Grounds. Such was its reception, etching the city's name on the global music map. A tee I bought at that venue has 'Bangalore - The Metal Capital of India' inscribed on it. Bengaluru, or Bangalore, still rules the rock and metal scene, which also resonates in its bars, such as Pecos, Jimi's and Purple Haze, that pay homage to this music. It's not yet curtains. Let the show begin... again!

TH-INKING OF TATTOOS?

As the new year progresses, tattoo artists, studio owners and customers talk about realistic tattoos becoming trendy in the ever-popular minimalist space

TUNIR BISWAS

WITH the new year, comes new trends in various fields. Such is the case with the tattoo industry also as people are rejuvenating themselves by inking new art on their bodies. However, instead of a completely new trend in tattoos, we have the continued popularity of minimalistic tattoos, where the tattoos are usually done with subtle line work, with a new twist: realism. Adding realistic and finely detailed work in a minimalist outline.

"The minimalist trend has continued with its ever-increasing popularity. We have seen it is more common among young women. There are a lot of unique designs available in the minimalist space and are usually placed mostly near the ribs, somewhere near the collarbone or on the inner biceps. The placement of tattoos is also changing recently as back in the day, people would get something on their forearms. Another trend that we have seen among couples is fingerprint tattoos. Instead of getting their partner's name, they're getting their fingerprints done in a small outline of a heart, for example," says Ritesh Aghariya, tattoo artist and owner of Tattoo Sutra, adding that people are also getting the print of their newborn child's foot tattooed as well.

While minimalism has maintained its dominance in the market, realism is also rearing its trendy head. "Minimalism is now being fused with realism as well due to the latter's newfound popularity. Realism is a type of design where you tattoo things borrowed from reality like someone's loved ones' portraits, for example. People in their early to mid-20s are usually opting for realistic and minimalist designs. Other than the trends, every artist has something or the other they're working on. Personally, I am taking inspiration from Indian folk and traditional arts in my designs," shares Guru Prasad, owner and head artist of Tattoo Trends.

Planets, stars, paw prints or a simple smiley are some of the popular minimalist designs

Agreeing with Prasad, Anand Lingaraju, co-founder of A Tattoo Studio says, "There are lots of things happening in minimalistic designs. From fine-line work to motivational quotes, people are tattooing all sorts of styles in the minimalist space. In a minimal 2/2 square inch space, people are also getting very detailed and realistic work done. But they're inking it more privately than before. What I mean by that is from afar, you would be able to tell that this person might have a tattoo done, but you have to closely observe to notice all the intricacies that are done. Basically, the details won't be visible from a distance as they will be done more subtly. In the detailed patterns, you can have the faces of your loved ones and any other realistic things like an animal design, for example. This falls both under minimalist and realistic designs." He mentions that they expect to see newer trends in couple tattoos in the coming month of February.

Rajlakhshmi Ghosh Dastiday, a writer in the city, feels some of her favourite artistes inspired to get tattoos. "So, I developed an interest in tattoos after I saw my favourite artistes getting them. I got my first tattoo when I was 18 and I never looked back. I now have about 8 tattoos. When it comes to the styles, it depends on my mood. The last one I got was of a coffee cup on a stack of books. A minimalist tattoo that I have is of the delta symbol, which signifies that I'm always open to new changes," she concludes.

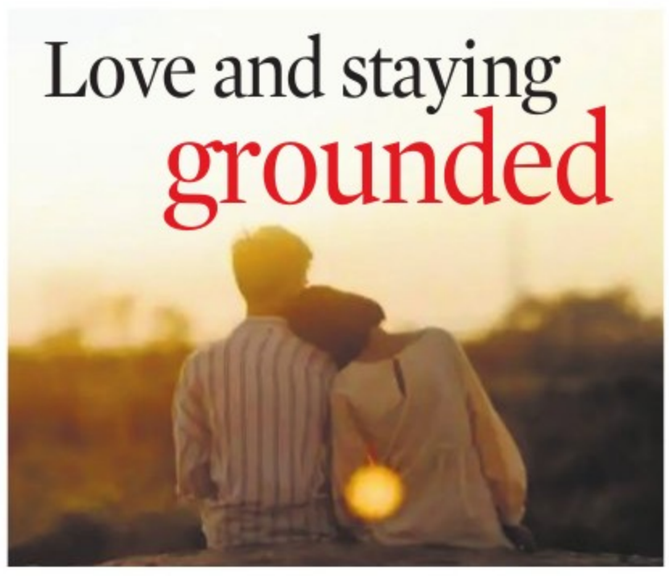
Love and staying grounded



ARE relationships a way of staying real and grounded?

When elders in families see the youth in their family getting a bit too independent in their thinking, wanting to do things that are way different than what the family has done thus far or actually go wayward, they often say things like, "It is time to tie this child's legs." What they mean is not to literally tie up one's legs but it is an expression to say that they think it is time this young person was tied up in domesticity. Get them married, encourage them to have a child or two, and then, the weight of all that responsibility will keep them on the straight and narrow path that these elders approve of. Nobody can be flighty when they have a family to feed and take care of – that's the idea.

These leg-chains as we call it down south in India, or the 'old ball and chains' as they called it in medieval times in England were not a response to love, or even an invitation to love. It was just about not going too far in how one explores, experiments and expresses oneself in life.

Does it work? Are we able to make real relationships when pushed into one by family or society? Can the wayward individual really get charmed into steady work and family through marriage?

If we look back into histories of family for generations before us, certainly there would be tonnes of stories to back it up. The successful lawyer with spouse and six kids who might have otherwise become a hippie, or the great agriculturist who consolidated the family's land holdings after being married off instead of chasing dreams of becoming an international chess master, the person who became this great home maker after having threatened to run away and join the circus – there's bound to be all those stories, as well as ones of people saddled with properties and progeny to manage while the wayward child who was supposed to reform with the relationship never did reform. Those stories are by the dozens as well, and hundreds of other stories of people just trudging along together, making and raising families, and repeating the same things that happened to them with the next generations over and over, till few really expect anything different.

Love and relationships are not necessarily steadying influences in life. Sometimes they may be so, but most times, they are not. If we expect that getting into a relationship will magically make us responsible, fully-functioning, model adult citizens, we are very likely to be disappointed.

Settling down is a choice. People who want to settle down and be all that an adult householder is supposed to be, will do so. They will find the partners to do it with, or do it by themselves. If we think we need love to do that, we will find love to do that, but we cannot really force it on anybody.

Relationships are not chains. Responsibility is not a consequence of being in love.

'I PREFER TO FIGHT MY OWN BATTLES'

The Challenging Star Darshan talks about his upcoming mass entertainer, Kranti, which is set for a massive release on January 26

A SHARADHAA

A look at Darshan's trajectory as an actor clearly demonstrates that he has thrived on challenges, professionally and personally. Despite surmounting challenges, the one constant in Darshan's career has been his legion of fans, who have stuck with him through thick and thin.

The craze of this fandom was seen in the runup to the release of his upcoming mass action entertainer, Kranti, which will hit theatres on January 26. Directed by V Harikrishna and produced by Shylaja Nag and B Suresha under Media House Studio banner, Kranti is expected to have over 1000 shows across Karnataka with the first day shows already being sold out.

While Kranti is about the condition of government schools in the State, Darshan shares that the title has a bearing to his current status in life too. 'We are all one in the film industry…but the industry has never been one."

In fact, this reflection of the film on his present situation is seen in various aspects of Kranti, including the rushes, and the song, Don't Mess With Him. In a candid interview with CE, Darshan speaks about the film and his intention of finding a conclusion for his professional and personal issues.

'IT IS ALL ABOUT CHANGE'

"Kranti means revolution, a change, and the tagline 'Learn to Fight Alone' gives a better perspective. Usually, a revolution begins with a single person's thought, which is echoed through a lot of people wanting to bring a change. That is the legacy that greats like Gandhiji, Netaji or Subhas Chandra Bose left behind. Likewise, Kranti explores the present situation of government schools, and the fight to bring change in the system," says Darshan, who adds that the film with a profound message, also has the requisites of a proper commercial mass entertainer.

"The climax of this film created by director V Harikrishna will be unique, and it will be unlike anything that people might have seen," says Darshan, adding, "Revolution is necessary to bring change."

KRANTI - LEARN TO FIGHT ALONE

The film's tagline, 'Learn to Fight Alone' which is relevant or the film, equally applies to Darshan's own journey. "That has been part of my process, and it has a deeper meaning in my life. It is better to fight alone because I do not want anyone else taking the credit later stating that I am existing because of them. My parents did support me upto an age, but I have stood on my own from the age of 18. I prefer to fight my own battles and reap my own successes," he says.

NOT GIVING UP

Darshan is honest enough to state that a lot of past events in his life are awaiting a conclusion, and he won't give up till he sees the end of it. "Everything has its time, and if people think that I have forgotten certain issues, and the true side of those incidents, which happened for no reason, they are wrong. The truth will come forward when the time is right. Having said that, I do have a lot of other work to do, and I would like to bring some issues to their right and justified conclusions," signs off a cryptic Darshan.

Richa Chadha's next based on true stories of second wave of Covid-19

CE FEATURES

RICHA Chadha will next portray the role of a frontline worker during the second wave of the Covid-19 crisis in an untitled film under the banner of Zee Studios. The film highlights true stories from those dire months in 2021.

Richa says, "This is based on those real incidents that we all witnessed during the second wave of Covid. While there was loss and despair, there was also hope. In fact I was so moved by this kindness of strangers that I started The Kindry, a small social media initiative that only amplified stories of goodness, selflessness through the second wave. The film takes a hard look at all our lives during the pandemic, where we were afraid to be human, there was enforced and mandatory distance. It talks about the doctors and nurses who were doing their job selflessly. I am honoured to play the role of one such resilient nurse."

The film is directed by Abhishek Acharya. Apart from this, Richa has wrapped up the shoot of Girls will be Girls, the first movie of her co-owned home production. Sidharth Malhotra on Andaman island named after Captain Vikram Batra: My heart swells with pride

CE FEATURES

RECENTLY Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced that the 21 largest unnamed islands in the Andaman and Nicobar archipelago had been named after Param Vir Chakra awardees. One of the islands was named after the Kargil War hero, the late Captain Vikram Batra. The life of Captain Batra was recently immortalised by Sidharth Malhotra in the Vishnuvardhan directorial, Shershaah (2021). Taking to his social media, Sidharth said, "The very news that an island in Andaman & Nicobar is named after our hero Captain Vikram Batra leaves me with goosebumps! My heart swells with pride that I was fortunate to live his role on screen. This step taken by Prime Minister Narendra Modi ensures that Shershaah lives on forever", the actor wrote.

Captain Batra, whose code name Shershaah became a prominent name in the 1999 war and he was instrumental in helping the Indian Army. The biopic was released on Prime Video in August 2021 to critical acclaim.

Sidharth was most recently seen in the Netflix film Mission Majnu, a spy thriller.

Sara Ali Khan's Ae Watan Mere Watan starts filming

CE FEATURES

Ae Watan Mere Watan, a drama based around India's freedom struggle, starring Sara Ali Khan, started filming on Monday. The film, which will premiere on Prime Video, is produced by Karan Johar's Dharmatic Entertainment.

Karan shared a teaser of the film on his Instagram page as he made the announcement. In the video, Sara can be seen in a white saree. She quietly enters a room, bolts the door pulls the drapes and starts setting up—what seems like— an erstwhile radio. The text in the video indicates that the story is based in Bombay in 1942. "The Britishers think that they have crushed the Quit Indian movement," she says. "But free voices can't be caged. This is the voice of Hindustan, from somewhere in Hindustan to someplace in Hindustan."
